Farmers Protest at Courthouse While County's Tax Reduced

Additional Troop Reduction Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was quoted today as telling congressional leaders another contingent of U.S. troops probably will be withdrawn from Vietnam beginning this month.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Nixon discussed that prospect at a briefing on his journey to Asia and Communist Romania, a trip which included a visit to Vietnam.

Dirksen said Nixon discussed his hopes about the future there and expressed "the evident belief that we'll probably have a further troop replacement and it could come probably before the end of this month."

Dirksen said he used the word "replacement" to indicate that South Vietnamese troops will be taking over for Americans who are withdrawn.

He said there was no indication at the White House session of how many men would be involved in a new pullout.

There has been speculation that it will involve another 25,000 men, the same number pulled back after Nixon's Midway Island meeting with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

"Further he noted that Nixon conferred in South Vietnam with Gen. Creighton Abrams, the U.S. commander there, and with American diplomats.

"He spoke no doubt, on the basis of the information that he got from our military leaders," Dirksen said.

He said there was also a general discussion of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, and an indication that information "from private sources might be brought to bear." Dirksen said no specific information was disclosed.

"There was no indication as to the source of that effort or

FEW SMILES COULD be seen this morning after farmers made a appearance before the Scott County Court in a futile attempt to get the $7 million assessment increase rescinded. About 60 farmers from the northern end of the county appeared to protest the increase.

While about 60 North-end farmers gathered at the Scott County Courthouse today to protest a $7 million increase in tax assessments as ordered by the State Tax Commission, an overall 16- cent tax rate reduction for the county was announced by Phil Waldman, county clerk.

The taxpayers appeared before County Court 10 a.m. this morning, but no action was taken by the court. Court members told the protesters to appeal their complaints to the County Board of Appeals next Monday.

Some of the protesters asked the court to rescend the increase and reassess all the land in the county. They don't think the increases were made fairly. One farmer said he wouldn't mind the increase if "I was sure we were being treated fairly."

Several protesters favored a plan to rescend the increase called for, then to make up the $7 million increase, called for by the state, with a blanket plan in which each taxpayer would pay more.

As it stands now, the court raised the land valuations on several persons in the county after they reviewed land assessments and found these persons' land valuations were lower than the valuation should be.

Dewey Dicus, Benton, a spokesman for the protesting farmers said, "I think we're getting the run around." "We hope to meet again Wednesday night," Dicus said, "after our lawyers, Joslyn and Joslyn Charleston, have reviewed the situation."

Members of the court are willing to listen to the protesters at the Board of Appeals, Monday.

The state tax commission ordered the $7 million increase, and the Court is calling for the increase in the manner it thinks fairest.

While the farmers continued to discuss the situation among themselves after they talked to the court, Phil Waldman announced county tax reduction which came as a result of the $7 million increase called for.

The county tax rate was cut by ten per cent, making it 45 cents instead of 50 cents. The Johnson Grass rate was cut 50 per cent, making it two cents rather than four cents.

County road and bridge rate was cut 20 per cent, a making it 28 cents instead of 35 cents, and the Sikeston special road district was reduced from 20 cents to 18 cents.

New rates for the County Health and school district taxes were not announced today.

Judge J. E. Childress announced the following schedule for the Board of Appeals.

Monday, Aug. 11; 9 a.m. to 12 a.m., 1 p.m.. to 4 p.m., farmlands.

Tuesday, Aug. 12, 9 a.m. to 12 a.m., Scott City, Illmo, Chaffee.

Tuesday, Aug. 12, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Vanduser, Blodgett Rockview, Commerce, Kelso, Benton, Morley, Diehlstadt, Oran, Miner and Perkins.

Wednesday, Aug. 13, 9 a.m. to 12 a.m., 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., Sikeston.

Childress said farmers may appeal at their scheduled time and in time left over after the other desinated towns have appealed.

Applications for Crop Insurance Being Taken in New Madrid County

If not a single stalk of wheat grew to maturity in New Madrid County this year due to unavoidable causes, farmers would still have $44,073 in assured buying power.

That's the amount the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., a non- profit agency of the USDA, stands ready to provide insured wheat growers here in case of crop failure, reports Ed Heckert field representative for FCIC from the district office at New Madrid.

He is now in the county for a limited time visiting with farmers and taking applications for All-Risk insurance on the 1970 and following wheat crops.

Changes have been made in the wheat insurance program for 1970 in 41 of the 60 Missouri counties where it is available. Bushel guarantees have been increased in 30 counties while rates adjustments have been made in 30 counties.

"All changes are relatively minor in nature and are done periodically in each of the 39 states where programs operate to keep them abreast of production trends, increasing costs and actual loss experience," Heckert reports.

The New Madrid County program has no changes.

Under FCIC's plan, farmers are guaranteed an established quantity of good quality grain. If drouth (except where irrigated), freeze, excess heat, flood, insects, wind, disease or any of 120 natural hazards drop yields below the guarantee, Federal Crop Insurance pays a cash loss.

These payments come in farm communities largely dependent upon an agricultural economy and at a time when the earning power of farmers is below normal due to crop losses. Thus, the money tends to stabilize local farm buying power at a time it is most needed.

More than 1,193 acres of wheat are protected in the county under the program for 1969 and FCIC hopes even more can be protected for 1970. The program is entirely voluntary, Heckert says.

Train Blast Rips Missouri Town

NOEL, Mo. (AP) — "It blew the hell out of things," said Kenneth Meador.

One piece of metal ripped through a wall of Mrs. Roxa Miller's house, killing the 47 year-old beauty parlor operator.

An 800-pound railroad car wheel soared three blocks and smashed into the home of Virgil Bentley, seriously injuring his wife.

Roofs caved in. Walls buckled. Main street was carpeted with shattered glass from store fronts. More than 40 persons were injured. Pieces of shattered railroad cars were thrown half a mile. At the site of the explosion there was a hole 15 feet deep and 50 feet across in the railway roadbed.

"Practically every building in town is damaged," said Meador, who operates a gas station.

The mystery blast shattered a 115-car Kansas City Southern freight train as it was passing through the community Sunday.

About 3:45 a.m. as the freight train rolled into Noel en route from Kansas City to Shreveport, La., the crew spotted a fire on one of the cars.

"They tried to get the train out of town before it blew up, but they didn't make it," said J.W. Braswell, local station agent.

There was a relatively minor first explosion.

The volunteer fire department and some other residents were rushing to the scene when a second, devastating blast occurred. The sound of the explosion was heard as far as 40 miles away.

Ambulances, fire trucks, law enforcement officials and volunteers from communities in nearby Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kansas rushed to Noel. Most of the injured were taken to hospitals in Gravette and Bentonville, Ark.

Railroad officials were uncertain just what blew up. Chief suspects were cars carrying dehydrated alfalfa and ammonium perchlorate—the latter an oxidizing agent in powder form used as a propellant in munitions.

The explosion severed some pipes on a propane gas tank standing beside the racks, and a fire ignited which began burning off escaping fumes.

Authorities feared the 12,500 gallon tank would explode and perhaps touch off two other tanks next to it.

Police ordered the town evacuated at 2 p.m. while employes of the Empire Gas Co. rigged a 2½-inch pipeline to the tank's main valve. Just before 6 p.m. they turned a valve allowing the propane to flow in liquid form through the pipe and ignited it.

Dayan Issues Offense Call

TEL AVIV (AP) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan called on Israelis today to take the offensive against Egyptian forces along the Suez Canal, but warned against a confrontation with Soviet military advisers stationed there.

Dayan told a meeting of Israel's ruling Labor party it is not enough for Israelis to fight a defensive action along the 103- mile waterway "sitting in a bunker keeping your head down."

The situation calls for offensive action against Egypt's breaches of the cease - fire, he said, such as air raids and ground thrusts by Israeli commandos into Egypt.

"But we have to be very selective in these actions," Dayan warned, "and take every measure to avoid a relationship with the Russians."

Dayan said Soviet advisers not only counsel Egyptian forces on how to use their weapons, they are now telling them "what must be done."

Alsco Loses Rocket Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has taken its rocket launcher business away from a St., Louis firm which cheated the government on previous contracts. New contracts with other companies will save as much as 38 per cent of previous costs.

Nine contracts for more than a quarter million 2.75- inch rocket launchers were awarded by the Navy from July 1963 through July 1968 to Chromcraft Corp. of St. Louis, which became Techfab Division of Alsco, Inc., when the two companies merged in 1966. The awards were granted on a sole source basis - that is without competitive bidding.

New contracts awarded to Varo Inc., of Garland, Tex., for 54,000 launchers and Talley Industries of Mesa, Ariz., for 59,041 launchers were let through competitive bidding, and the price came tumbling down.

Last year, Alsco and several individuals were twice indicted by federal grand juries, once in Washington on charges they created phantom suppliers and received kickbacks on launcher contracts, and once in St. Louis on charges of illegally exporting arms to Belgium.

Arson Suspected In 2 Fires

Suspicion of arson is being investigated in two of three fire calls the Sikeston Fire Department responded to on Sunday, Acting Fire Chief Dolph Webb said today.

Webb said that both the fire at a small house, destroyed at the rear of 212 Alabama at 12:08 a.m. and the setting of a large trash pile at the corner of West Malone and Clayton, reported at 12:57 a.m., were under investigation.

The third fire occurred as a result of a kitchen stove flaming from a gas leak occurred at 7:20 p.m. in the house at 846 Ruth Street.

THE PORTAGEVILLE Housing project is rapidly taking shape. Work is being done on streets as well as on the houses. Completion of some units is slated for late August.

$3,307,761 Budget Approved For New Madrid R-1 District

PORTAGEVILLE -- The New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged District made up of the following component districts, New Madrid, Lilbourn, Parma, Matthews, and Portageville, has been reorganized for one year. This is the largest reorganization in area that has occurred in the State of Missouri to date. A reorganization of this magnitude has necessitated many changes. There are many things yet to be done; we have plans for some forward steps this year. Moving ahead in the development of a Vocational Program is one of the items high on our list of priorities. It will take time to implement some of the programs and plans that have already been projected.

The centralization of accounting, record keeping, reporting and financial transactions has already been set up in a central office, and a centralized program of purchasing has been instituted.

At the last board meeting, the board approved a $3,307,761. budget with the following totals for expenditure for the 1969-70 school year: Administration, $118,400; Instruction, $1,915,984; Attendance & Health Services $4,380; Pupil Transportation, $213,000; Operation of Plant, $215,750; Maintenance, $46,600; Fixed Charges, 187,000; Debt Service, 171,207; Payments between districts, $3,100; Capital Outlay, $160,975; Food Services, $212,700 and Student Body Activities, $58,000. Title I Report for 1969-70 School year based upon 90 percent of eligibility of preliminary allocations is $619,489.

The five schools that now comprise the recently reorganized district were classified on an individual basis for the 1968-69 school year by the State Department of Education as follows:

Lilbourn A-rating - 43½ units offered.

Matthews A-rating - 47½ units offered.

New Madrid A-rating - 38 units offered.

Parma A-rating - 43¾ units offered.

Portageville AAA-rating - 64 units offered.

This is the last year the districts will be classified on an individual district basis.

The district will make an effort to attain the AAA classification in the near future. Plans for the next year call for speech correction teachers necessary for all students of the enlarged district, the addition of homeliving courses for all eighth grade girls, and shop courses for all eighth grade boys. All schools plan to provide secondary special education classes.

The Marston High School building is being remodeled and will house twelve sections of elementary grades of the old Lilbourn district. The sections will receive remedial instruction and will be limited to an enrollment of twenty students per class.

School patrons are invited to visit the Marston school at their earliest convenience, for the plant improvement is tremendous.

The old Portageville district will continue with the breakfast program that has operated the past three years under the National Child Nutrition Act and also will continue the Follow-Through program. The program will be expanded from two classes to a total of seven classes for the coming year. The

NO STRIKEBREAKING HERE

One of New Jersey's large manufacturing plants recently was hit by a strike over a wage dispute. The workers formed their picket lines and the company's gates were closed to all but supervisory personnel. We have heard of no violence associated with the work stoppage, but one of the sidelights of the union walkout was interesting. A union shop steward idled by the strike was allowed by his county welfare board to collect welfare payments. The taxpayers were, in effect, paying the man to strike. The company hit by the strike pays a large amount in taxes. It was paying one of its employees to stay at home while its machinery was idle.

Relief payments are fine, but isn't this a bit foolish? Couldn't the welfare system make some sort of special arrangement in cases like this? Why should taxpayers pay for maintaining employed persons who are out of work of their own free will? While it is possible that the employee in question may not have voted in favor of a strike, he is still a part of the union local using a strike to gain a pay hike. The oddest part of the affair is that the public will pay double for this. They will pay the tab for the welfare checks received by the striker, and they will likely pay increased retail prices for the salary increase granted to the company's employees.

How needy was the family? They own their own home - a six- room house with a finished bedroom and lavatory in the basement. They have two cars, an eighteen - foot camper trailer, a color tv, a freezer, washer, dryer, a five-foot deep backyard swimming pool and, acquired while the strike was in progress, a motorcycle.

In temporary welfare cases such as this, wouldn't it be fairer to establish some sort of loan assistance, to be administered through welfare agencies, and perhaps guaranteed by them? This would obligate the striker to repay the money.

On this basis, we at least would not be subsidizing the total cost of strikes and encouraging their continuance.

WHAT THE BANKS ARE SAYING

According to our financial observer who spends some of his time in the canyons of Wall Street, the increase in the prime rate to 8-½ per cent this week may have shaken up a few "easy money" men but the real clincher was the move in the Treasury bill market.

He writes: "We've been in this business more than 40 years and, during that time, we have witnessed the peaks and the valleys in our economy. Believe me, we can sympathize -- with the feelings but not the ideas -- of the 'easy money' crowd. Boy, oh boy, are they mad.

"When the New York bankers took the money belt in another notch we were in Phoenix talking with some real down-to-earth businessmen and farmers. You don't find this type in New York. You can hear the yelps from Washington 'easy money' crowd all the way out there. Those Washington fellows don't mind spending and running deficit budgets but when the bill is presented and must be paid, it surely shakes them up. I say right now, without any hedging, that we will have a lot more pressure put on the economy if the high interest rates don't work. The 8-½ per cent prime level is a record rate. It is only one of many new money rate records being set. We are in a period that is unlike anything we have seen in this century -- and the investor had better take heed of this . . .

"The medicine we are swallowing now we've needed for a long time. There is still more coming if this doesn't work. Over a year ago we said that, if the surtax-monetary restriction combination didn't work, then we could expect wage and price controls at the end of the road. We don't want this anymore than anyone else but believe me they are in the wings. Keep your eyes open and you will see the trial balloons being sent up . . .

"The jump in the prime rate of a full percentage point to 8-½ per cent may have seemed big to some but remember the big banks are using this to get across a message. They are telling their customers to hold off your money needs . . . we don't have the cash to meet your demands . . . slow down. If businessmen, municipal officials and investors don't get this message they had better wake up in a hurry. Time is running out and the money well is drying up . . . "

And that's about as straight-talk that you'll read in a country daily newspaper who asked a question of an expert and got the above answer.

One man may become an idler and a drunkard, but his ruin does not mean ruin for sober industrious men.

"A ready-to-buy frame of mind" is a consumer characteristic created uniquely by newspaper advertising, according to the Media Director of a major advertising agency.

Food shopping was used as an example:

"In the food area, we have a built-in assurance of mood and environment going for us because of the shopping habits of the consumer. More often than not the consumer will consult her newspaper just prior to her shopping expedition on what we call 'best food day'."

The advertising media specialist pointed out that other merchants and dealers could use the newspaper with the same effectiveness secured by grocers.

"Put it in terms of the automobile business and the edge it would offer if you were fairly assured that you could use a medium which you knew would be referred to just prior to a day of showroom visits," he suggested.

The use of newspaper advertising in almost all types of retailing gives the advantage of "knowing that our target is in a ready-to-buy frame of mind. This is an ideal set of circumstances" for completing a sale.

It could be added that thorough coverage of the local market by newspaper also creates an ideal shopping situation for the consumer as well as the seller.

The consumer who has adequately pre-shopped in his local newspaper knows what he is doing. He responds to the advertising only if he is in the mood to buy. He does not waste his time moving from store to store, or from town to town.

FOOTBALL'S LONG SEASON

The Super Bowl champion New York Jets will launch the 1969-70 professional football season when they play the College All-Stars in Chicago on Friday, Aug. 1. Five professional team exhibition games are scheduled for the following night. The football season -- spanning three calendar seasons -- won't end until next January.

This year's College All-Stars have less twinkle than previous squads. Those who will not be playing include O. J. Simpson, Leroy Keyes, Joe Greene and Ron Sellers -- the first, third, fourth and sixth players, respectively, picked by the pro teams in last January's American Football League - National Football League draft of college seniors.

The reason for this absenteeism is that the players involved have not yet come to terms with the teams that drafted them. Simpson, regarded by many as potentially the greatest running back ever to play football, has asked the Buffalo Bills for a five-year, $650,000 contract, plus a $500,000 loan for investment purposes. Bills owner Ralph Wilson Jr. reportedly countered with a five-year, $250,000 contract and turned down the loan request.

The remaining unsigned players may eventually sign for this season. Even though pro football is hard work, it pays well for six months of punishment. A poll taken last January by the National Football League Players Association showed that average salaries ranged from a high of $30,548 on the Baltimore Colts to a low of $22,290 on the Pittsburgh Steelers.

AN UNUSUAL REPORT

A Congressional subcommittee recently issued a report, bearing a title "Economic Analysis of Public Investment Decisions," that is enough to scare the nonexpert reading public into the next county. But despite the title, the report contains some unusual recommendations, coming as it does from within the ranks of the greatest spending body in the world. As Ralph de Toledano expresses it, the report " . . . . proposes that when the federal government takes a buck from the taxpayer, it should be investe in a way that will return a buck to the Treasury."

If the report is taken seriously by Congress, it will mean hard sledding for government in business projects that have thrived on tax and interest subsidies and other privileges not enjoyed by private, taxpaying commercial enterprises. The report contains such observations as the following: " . . . no public investment be deemed 'economic' or 'efficient' if it fails to yield overall benefits which ae are at least as great as those which the same resources would have produced if left in the private sector . . . . the financing of the federal government entails a reduction in both private consumption and private investment spending . . . "

The report calls on the Bureau of the Budget and federal agencies to "intensify their efforts to formulate accurate monetary estimates of the benefits and costs of public investments," and points an unwavering finger at congressional spenders with the admonition, "The purpose of the federal government as an investor should be to sustain the private sector and not to exploit s pprivate citizens to achieve its own ends." These are strong words, and they apply directly to largely tax-exempt competitive business ventures of government such as electric power.

Gloom and Doom Report, 1969

Viewing the picture painted by Defense Secretary Melvin Laird before the Senate Armed Services Committee, one is overcome by a feeling of deja vu. We have seen it all before – more than once.

Not since the "missile gap" of 1960 has the United States been in such dire peril on so many fronts.

There is no light at the end of the Vietnam tunnel; there is not even an end to the tunnel. There can be no reduction of U.S. troops, said Laird, until all the North Vietnamese go home.

In Laos, 40,000 Vietnamese "could probably overrun the nation at will."

In Korea, "Peace hangs by a slender thread."

British withdrawal from South Asia makes that area a "potential security problem."

The Middle East "verges on an active state of war, with thyimminent threat of expansion."

Not only has the Soviet challenge in Europe grown more dangerous, but Russia now has more ballistic missiles than we do and is proceeding with the development of a multiple warhead delivery stystem and supermegaton warheads which could "essentially destroy" all our Minuteman missiles in their underground silos without direct hits.

Even our Polaris submarine fleet, a surviving fraction of which could obliterate the U.S.S.R., will not be an "adequate" deterrent beyond 1972, for reasons which the secretary did not wish to go into in public.

In sum, "never before have the challenges to our national security exceeded in number and gravity those which we found upon taking office."

We should be grateful for small favors, however. The secretary did not report that the sky is falling.

POOR SELLER

A HEAVY DRINKER was proud of the fact that he could tell by taste what was in every drink put before him. One day a wise bartender dumped into his glass the leavings of several drinks and told him to name them.

He rattled off Scotch, bourbon, gin, and so forth. The bartender then gave him a glass of plain water and said:

"O.K., what's that?"

The lush took a drink of the water, looked puzzled, and finally said:

"You got me that time, but let me tell you, it will never sell!"

Doc. Duncan Says

Big oil's chickens are coming home to roost when the 27½% depletion allowance was passed (by the lawmakers it was said it was for the puprose of searching for new oil, but as most folks in Swamp East Mo., knows at about that time big inch pipeline was pumping oil from Texas and the talk in inner circles was that crude would be pumped from S.E. mo., to be last instead of from Texas that was in the good-ole days when the news media indicated the price of a lawmaker was $2500,00 and Sen case refused a bribe at that price than proceeded to tell it in open Senate papers was full of it at that time.

Forme; President Harry Truman could write a book on that Big oil that would set the world on fire. But he is loyal to his oath we are sure. To help the secrets of a President. We sometimes wonder if this present hassel over depletion allowance is for real or an attempt to raise the price of lawmakers for Big Oil in line with the take from taxpayer. The take without representation whatsoever, period.

H.L. Hunt Says

ABM DEFENSE URGENTLY NEEDED

If those gullible Senators were to succeed in blocking the deployment of the Anti-Ballistic Missile Defense System we could be at the mercy of "nuclear blackmail" from either the Soviet Union or Communist China in just a very few years.

The theory of the ABM System is that in the event of a communist missle attack against the United States, the U.S. could detect and destroy the enemy's missiles before they reach us.

Soviet Russia is developing sophisticated new weapons. Instead of debating what the Kremlin's intentions may or may not be, it would seem logical to decide any issue in favor of the safety of our country.

Communist China has successfully tested Hydrogen bombs at their nuclear weapons testing center at Lopnor, in Sinkiang Province. It is only a matter of time before they develop the capability of delivering missiles to targets in the United States.

Would the communists dare to wage nuclear war? Lenin has stated, "It doesn't matter if three quarters of the world is wiped out, if the remaining one quarter is communist." The belligerent Mao Tse-Tung has made similar statements.

The key to the situation is timing. It is necessary to begin immediate construction of at least a few of the ABM sites, to have them ready at the time that the communists have pefected the weapons they could use against us.

Yet, the hard core opponents of the ABM in the Senate, are most emphatic on just that point, that there be absolutely no construction or deployment.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON--There are four reasons why last week's stock market slide caused worry in Wall Street and Washington:

1) The spiral of ever-increasing wages, consumers goods prices plus taxes is squeezing the middle class. And when the middle class, with the biggest aggregate buying power in the nation, starts to lose that power, recession can accelerate.

2) Increased wages are sending the cost of U.S. exports so high that we are pricing ourselves out of foreign markets. This is equivalent to the tariff barriers erected by the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act in the Hoover Administration which helped trigger the great depression.

3) Interest rates are so high that building construction, hitherto the bell ringer of the economy, has slowed up.

4) The European Economy was kept at a high level after World War I by reparations payments from Germany which were pumped into France, England and Italy. But where did that reparations money actually come from? Not from Germany but from Wall Street Loans to Germany, negotiated in part by John Foster Dulles, then the attorney for the bankers.

When these loans began to bounce, as they did midway through Hoover's first term, the entire economy of Europe and the United States started collapsing. Thus began the great depression.

Following World War II, the United States pumped huge amounts of foreign aid, at one time totalling around $8 billion a year, into foreign economies. We have now cut this down to a trickle. This could have the same effect as curtailing bank loans and reparations after World War I.

The United States today has erected many more economic safeguards than existed in Hoover's day. Nevertheless, some of the same 1929-31 ingredients exist and they are causing political and economic uneasiness not only on Wall Street but all over Europe.

--Long Stock Market Decline--

The stock market has been in a major decline for two months, and individual stock investors have lost millions and even billions of dollars. Major industrial firms are cutting back on Capital spending plans. The latest University of Michigan survey of consumer buying intentions shows consumers are becoming pessimistic; they expect inflation to grow.

In the United States, wages and prices continue spiraling with no end in sight. Taxes are hitting everyone's income as government costs keep soaring. Yet people are buying new cars, new appliances, new homes, new clothes as if they had money-making machines. Young couples with husband and wife both working are living on a scale of affluence that would mean instant catastrophe if either lost their job. And very few of them have any savings which could cushion them through a long period of unemployment.

Illustrating the zooming labor costs, Asphalt truck drivers in New York last month won a wage increase of $57 a week, which will net them $266.80 for a 40-hour week -- far more than is made by most University teachers and by highly skilled professional workers.

In New York, these and other increases will boost the cost of building labor by 35 per cent. The building trades unionists will have more money to spend on their homes, but there will be fewer homes for other people in New York.

--No Inflation Curbs--

So far the Nixon administration, though concerned about inflation has done little to curb it. When kindly Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy was asked at a private luncheon what was to be done regarding the high cost of labor in the New York building trades, he replied: "The construction companies don't need to hire them."

When asked what would be done in the case of a strike in the building trades, he replied: "That's the problem of the Secretary of Labor."

Despite this bland approach, Secretary Kennedy has gone further than any other cabinet member in proposing energetic controls on inflation -- namely, wage and price controls. But, each time, his chief in the White House, Richard Nixon, hit the ceiling. The President has been so irked that White House staff members are making "book" that Kennedy will be the first staff member to go.

So the economy has continued drifting. President Nixon is still relying on "conventional means"--high interest rates and tight money--to curb inflation. But clearly they are not working.

There is no question but that the recent decline in the stock market was welcomed by the top men in Wall Stret and the Bankers who are working closely with Washington.

But once a depression starts it isn't easy to stop. If one hits the United States the whole free world will be involved, since foreign nations would lose their markets in the United States and their economies would collapse also.

Governments would topple. The government of Italy is trying to extricate itself from the difficult bind right now. One Italian general, Giovanni Di Lorenzo, was removed as chief of staff for plotting against the government. Significantly, he was promptly elected by the people to be a member of parliament, where he has immunity.

Adolph Hitler came to power in Germany largely because of that country's economic chaos.

A lot of people still remember the collapse of the stock market in 1929, the long bread lines, the men selling apples on the streets, millions of families going hungry every day.

It doesn't have to happen here. But it could happen unless we take vigorous measures to combat it.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Making of a Confrontation: Gov't Warns Black Labor Federations Against Wildcat Picketing

Washington, D.C.: -- In mid-July, a federal agency dispatched one of its runners (he walked) to hand-deliver a communication to a noted Chicago attorney--and sent carbon copies to the Black Labor Federation, the Afro-American Employes of Hotpoint (near Chicago) and some of their militant leaders.

The document, written in government English, took considerable translation from the original bureaucratic formalism. What it says, in effect, is:

Don't picket. Don't disrupt. Don't it down inside the plant. Don't paralyze production. You are, in the eyes of the law, labor organizations. But this same law recognizes you don't have a contract regardless of the number of Negroes and Spanish-speaking employes in the big GE installation at Cicero, Ill. So obey the law.

"All parties concerned, however," said the government letter, "are put on notice that any repetition by the parties charged of that type of conduct described above, which occurred in October 1968 . . . . will be proceeded against promptly . . . . "

Years from now some eagle-eyed writer, working on the Making of a Revolution or The New Labor Movement will note this letter as the beginning of major confrontations on the socio-industrial complex front.

The letter, delivered the past July 15, was written by the National Labor Relations Board Acting Regional Director to the attorney for General Electric, which obviously sells much more than moon landings.

Back in October 1968, its Hotpoint subsidiary had charged the Afro-Americans, and Robert Lucas, president and agent of the Black Labor Federation, 33 out of some 1,200 Puerto Rican and black, blue-collar employes at Hotpoint had picketed, sat down, sat in, refused to work, demanded they be recognized as the official coective bargaining agent and stalled production for a day or so.

General Electric's officers noted that they have a contract with the Sheet Metal Workers Local 571 running until Oct. 26, 1969. They observed that virtually none of the 33 per cent of the plant's work force who are Negro and Spanish-speaking paid more than a hoot of attention to the AFro-American picket line. So the company filed unfair labor practices charges against the Plunkett-Lucas organizations. This set a precedent. It took courage.

The attacks came soon enough. Low in the saddle where the SDS pamphleteers. They accused the company of discrimination through Hotpoint recruits heavily in the hard-core unemployment areas and pays a bonus to those bringing in new workers.

It goes all out with educational programs, orientation courses, and special pay for steady attendance.

Nine months after the Afro-American picketing the regional labor board dispatched its letter to GE's counsel, Theophil C. Kammholz. The board dismissed the charge because all had been quiet on the Hotpoint front. But the blunt warning to Messrs. Plunkett and Lucas is there.

The board warns that no picketing, on the same grounds, will be tolerated. Nor will disruption of production be ignored. The board, if defied, will go to the courts. The bench then can be expected to enjoin the pickets. If the judges are ignored, they can fine or imprison the defiant ones.

There's the making of the confrontation.

We talk not of extremists here. The Afro-American Employes of Hotpoint and the Chicago-based Black Labor Federation are but the counterparts of hundreds of such units. There are Black Caucuses in hundreds of big cities. Their names vary. Some come as the United Black Brotherhood which disrupted Ford at Mahwah, N.J. Some are known as Ad Hock committees as in the huge steel plants. Some are just Black Caucuses as in the Transport Workers Union – which is the clearest reflection of the unrecognized industrial revolution.

Almost everybody remembers the Irish-brogued, fire-tongued, rapier-humored late president of the TWU, Mike Quill. He made his saucy way at the head of an almost all-Irish union of subway and bus workers.

Beloved Mike's last hurrah came as he ripped a $62 million raise for his people from New York's Mayor John Lindsay. That came in the early hours of 1966. Even then he noted the change. Almost half his membership was black and Spanish-speaking. Today, the rating is higher. The big city's transit hiring now runs 70 per cent black to 30 per cent white.

And so the change creeps on – everywhere. The rank and file is changing, even if the leadership is not.

It's a new rank and file. Not only does it want a piece of the action. It wants action. And from it spring thousands of Willie Plunketts and Robert Lucases.

They meet. They plan strategy just as old caucuses did. And they will hit the bricks again. They will defy the boards, the courts and labor's leadership. The executives of commerce and industry will be caught in the middle. So will the government. For on it will rest the making of a decision – to a fine, or to arrest, or to turn away.

The hand-delivered letter said there will be a confrontation. We'll see.

Ann Landers

Mentally Retarded Son Is Challenge To All

Dear Ann Landers: Our retarded son, Al, is nearly 13. His mentality has been at the three year level for the past five years.

Al is large for his age and getting stronger all the time. I can't handle him as I once did. This past year he has beated up his younger brothers several times. They are not permitted to strike him. My husband gets furious and hits Al with a belt. I can't bear to see this, yet I realize something must be done.

Three doctors have told us to institutionalize the boy but I can't bring myself to do it. My mother says God has sent us this child to test our Christian mettle and we must bear this cross and not seek easy answers.

I need your advice. --- Sleepless Nights, Tortured Days

Dear Sleepless and Tortured: You have already gotten advice from three authorities who are much closer to the situation than I am. I hope you take it. And please tell your mother that institutionalizing a child is no "easy answer." It is a difficult move, but often the best solution for all concerned.

Dear Ann Landers: Six years ago I met a girl through mutual friends. The gang wanted to go to a movie I had already seen. The girl wasn't particularly interested in the movie and suggested that we just walk around town. We had a pleasant evening and ended up at a coffee house. When the check came it was $2.10. I was 60 cents short. I searched in every pocket, knowing I wouldn't find any more money. Finally, the girl made a joke of it and said, "Let me treat you." I agreed.

I never saw her after that because we moved out of town a few months later. I've thought about her many times since and I'm sorry I didn't keep in touch. I know where she lives and I'd like to send her the $2.10 plus interst, but I'm afraid she's got me down as a heel. What do you think?-- Debt Unpaid

Dear Un: Don't send money. Send, instead, a bouquet of flowers, a box of candy or a book. Attach a note thanking her for the coffee and appologize for being six years late.

Dear Ann Landers: Some time ago you printed a letter from a young man who was heartbroken because he and his girl friend had gone too far and her parents would not let her see him again. The one sentence in his letter that I was struck by went something like this: "I'd give anything if I could live that part of my life over again. I would be perfectly content just to hold her hand.

I wish you'd reprint that letter, Ann. So many young girls today feel they must be sexually permissive in order to keep their boyfriends interested. The truth is the boys would gladly take "no" for an answer. In fact they'd prefer it.

We have a lovely daughter who reads your column regularly and this notion is one which she and some of her girl friends need to get through their heads. Please? --- Concerned Mother

Dear Mother: Your letter served the purpose. Thanks for writing.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage --- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers incare of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Lady Lineman In Oklahoma

WILBURTON, Okla. (AP) — Look there, up in the sky. Is it a mirage? Is it a stunt? No, it's Linda Little, lady lineman.

Her female form perched atop a telephone pole is no new sight around this southeast Oklahoma town. Linda, 22, has been climbing for years for her family owned Oklahoma Western Telephone Co.

"I was reared in a phone company," explains the petite mother of two. "When my father was alive, I used to follow him around. He would take me out in all kinds of weather.

"I found out I'd rather shinny up a pole to be close to him than to stay down on the ground where I could be hit with a pair of pliers that were dropped."

Her father, the late Luther Morris, founded the phone company, which now serves nine towns. Her mother is semiretired from the company and "about all she does is sign the checks," said Mrs. Little.

"I remember my dad telling me that it was important to know every phase of the work so if anything happened, I could take over," she said. "There hasn't been any part of it that I haven't done."

Mrs. Little, who lives at Clayton, Okla., used to work a switchboard in the family telephone system before it went to dialing.

"One thing about climbing, it'll sure keep you trim," she said.

Mrs. Nixon 'Didn't See An Ugly Face'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pat Nixon came home from her round-the-world trip saying that the "happy, smiling faces of the people that welcomed us everywhere" are evidence of a "lessening of tensions."

"I didn't see an ugly face on the whole trip," Mrs. Nixon said in an interview while flying home Sunday night.

And because she didn't see any demonstrations or signs of criticism, Mrs. Nixon said she feels: "America's prestige is at an all-time high."

In winding up her first foreign trip with her husband since he became President, Mrs. Nixon said the reception in Romania was one of the big moments they have experienced during eight years of traveling around the globe.

For two days "they came out time after time," she said of the enthusiastic crowds in Bucharest.

"I wouldn't stand for two days for anything," she said laughingly.

Mrs. Nixon said she felt the Romanians have always had an affection for the United States.

"They want to be proud and had a chance to be proud because an American president was in their country," she said, adding that the U.S. moon landing "played a part in it."

The First Lady also was impressed by the soldiers and security men which lined the routes in Bucharest.

"Once they get you in, they take care of you," Mrs. Nixon said of the Communist government.

Time and again on her travels, Mrs. Nixon was caught in a crush of eager welcomers, pushed and jostled.

"I never mind that," she said.

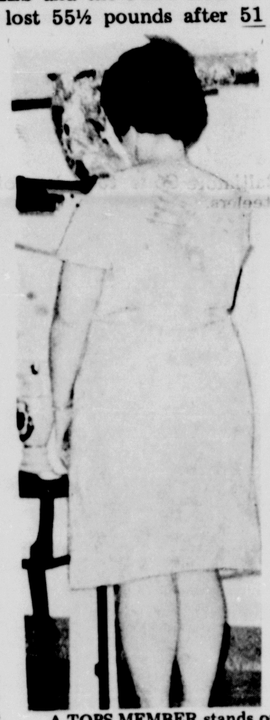
Mrs. Nixon recalled that the wife of India's acting President Mohammed Hidayatullah had told her in New Delhi: "You can't buy a crowd to come out. If you ask them to come out, they wouldn't do it."

Indians turned out, her hostess told Mrs. Nixon, because of interest created by the moon landing and because "they want to see that car"—the Presidential limousine which was flown in for Nixon's use at each stop.

While the President was conferring with heads of governments, Mrs. Nixon made visits to hospitals and social welfare institutions and adressed women volunteers.

Nixon said his wife "got an A report card all the way" on their trip through seven nations.

Returning home tired after more than 12 days of traveling, Mrs. Nixon's "do-it-myself" hairdo was still holding up well.



A TOPS MEMBER stands on doctors scales, the club's first purchase, to see if she has been a good dieter this week.

'Fat Ladies' Find Strength In Sharing Concern With TOPS

By SUSAN SHEMWELL

In the basement of a home in a middle-class section of town, 30 women are helping each other overcome what they call a psychological problem -- overeating.

"Where do you walk? Call me and I'll walk with you," one fat woman said to her friend who hikes to do her shopping.

Call me and I'll go with you. That is purpose of the organization of fat women which meets weekly. Called TOPS, Take Off Pounds Sensibly, members get together to share problems of compulsive eating, and to give each other encouragement to stop.

Surrounded by her fat sisters, one woman gave a testimony about a triumph she had with her emotions this week. Her voice quivered when she described the food that she had not eaten.

"Last night I was frying eggs at midnight for a kid who came in from a ballgame. It made me so hungry just watching him make a sandwich of two fried eggs, a thick piece of ham and two slices of cheese. Then he drank a whole quart of orange juice. Finally, I forced myself out of the kitchen and yelled at him to put everything away himself.

"We're proud of you," the women encouraged. "We know you will stay with losing weight now."

The club members really care when they give encouragement. Many of these women were fat, but their families and friends liked them that way. At the meetings of TOPS, everyone cares about even a fourth-pound gained or lost by a member.

Teamwork in dieting works for some members. Two women who cook at a clinic joined the club together and serve as each other's will power at work.

"If you don't think working around delicious food eight hours a day, and trying to stay on a diet, is easy. Just try it," the cook said in her testimony at a meeting this week.

"This food isn't very good, but it is better than grass," one cook told the other as the prepared their special trays for lunch. This "better than grass" saying keeps them both going, she said.

Another incentive for all of the compulsive eaters is a weekly confrontation with a set of doctors scales. The women weigh in at each meeting and are punished or rewarded by the results.

A pig-of-the-week and a queen-of-the-week are chosen according to the most pounds gained and lost.

"It may be silly, but it works," a charter member who has lost 35 pounds said.

A member who is 55½ pounds slimmer after 51 weeks of TOPS membership, looked to the organization for encouragement when her husband did not seem to care if she were fat or thin.

"A husband not caring about your weight is better than one like mine. He sits at the table and adds up the calories on my plate," another member said in her testimony.

Weight-reducing tricks help the women get a proper perspective on the value of food. Some of the women put every bit of food they would like to nibble into a quart jar.

"By the end of the week, the mess of food in that jar really turns me against food," a 35-pound loser said.

Eating ice after meals, putting a picture of one's fat self on the kitchen wall, or keeping a plastic pig in the refrigerator have helped some of the women stay on diets.

The Sikeston club chartered nationally July 2, 1968, was formed by two women who visited Charleston TOPS. Five of the original eight members are still with the club after one year.

When members reach their desired weight, they graduate to KOPS, Keep Off Pounds Sensibly. KOPS members attend their fatter sisters' meetings and give them encouragement to become thinner, healthier people.

"Fat people know that maintaining a healthy weight is a life-long struggle," a KOPS member said.

She joined one of two groups selected this week to have a competitive weight loss for six weeks. These fat women believe that the big losers will be the small winners.

Renewed with some will-power after the TOPS meeting this week, the women repeated the pledge they say whenever they open the refrigerator door:

"I am an intelligent person
I will control my emotions, not let my emotions control me.
Every time I am tempted to use food to satisfy my FRUSTRATED DESIRES, BUILD UP MY INJURED EGO or DULL MY SENSES
I will remember even though I overeat in private -- My excess poundage is there for all the world to see
WHAT A FOOL I'VE BEEN."
(National TOPS club pledge.)

Weber Beats Godwin For Charleston Honors

NEW CHARLESTON INVITATIONAL golf champion is Charles Weber, Cape Girardeau, who took a one stroke edge with a 140 par equalling performance to shade defending champion Buddy Godwin of Poplar Bluff for the medalist and championship honors at the 30th annual tourney, held Saturday-Sunday at Charleston. He receives the prized H. G. Simpson Traveling Memorial trophy from tourney Chairman Heinie Hequembourg.

CHARLESTON -- Charles Weber, Cape Girardeau, forged a par equaling 140 to take the medalist honors and the championship of the 30th Annual Charleston Country Club Invitational Golf tourney and secured two legs of the three necessary for permanent possession of the H. G. Simpson Traveling Memorial Golf Trophy. He now shares this honor with J. D. Byrne, Charleston, and Ken Lanning, Poplar Bluff. Lanning did not compete this year and Byrne finished outside consideration.

Weber put together exact 70's Saturday and Sunday to edge Bud Godwin of Poplar Bluff the defending champ, by a single stroke as Godwin took second honors with a 141, closely followed by fellow townsman Jim Markel who carded a 142 for the third spot. Heinie Hequembourg, the tourney chairman, finished fourth in the championship flight contention with a 145 and Mike David, Desloge, gained the fifth spot with a 147.

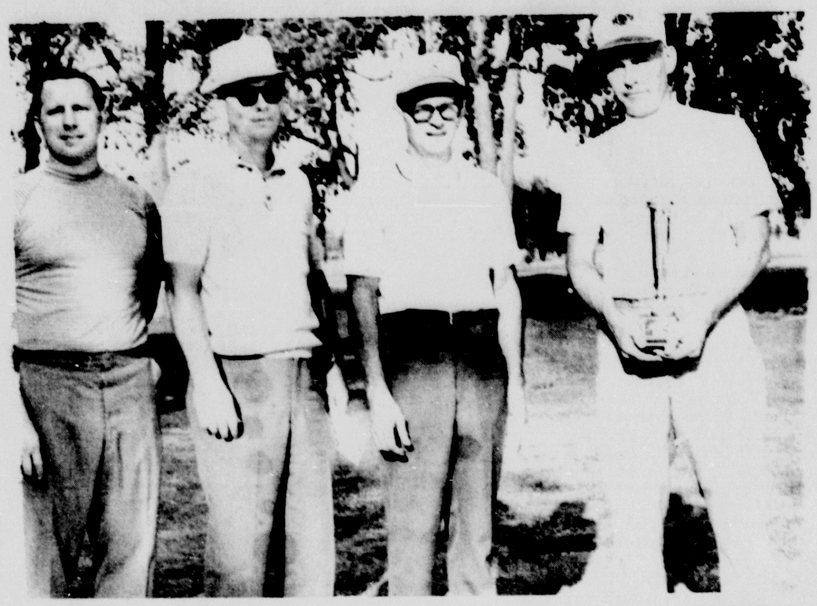
Five different towns were represented in the top five of the Class A flight, captured by Bob Johnson of Poplar Bluff with a 147. Bill Bagby of Mounds, Ill., finished second, a stroke behind Johnson with a 148 as Gene Cross of Portageville and Jerry Estes of Cape deadlocked for three with exact 149 totals and Gene Dawson of Sikeston took fifth with a 150.

L. H. Wilson of Poplar Bluff outlasted Him Drake of Charleston, posting a 148 for a single stroke advantage over Drake's 149 in Class B play and Harvey Branch, a Florida visitor, took third with a 156. Charles Brink of Charleston and Don Hearne of Little Rock, Ark., tied for fourth with 159 totals.

Pat Sullivan of Mounds turned in a 162 to cop Class C honors we Don Fowler of Cape was second with a 163; John Newberry of Sikeston third with a 164; Al Burnett of Charleston fourth was 166 and Larry Wadlington of Cape Girardeau fifth with 168.

Gov. Warren Hearne, playing as usual in his hometown tourney, carded a 157, while playing in Class A competition.

A total of 103 golfers participated.



FOUR CLASS A top finishers in the annual Charleston Invitational Golf Tourney, held there Saturday and Sunday include (from left) Jerry Estes, Cape Girardeau, fourth finisher; Gene Cross, Portageville, third placewinner; Bill Bagby, Mounds, Ill., the runnerup and champion Bob Johnson of Poplar Bluff, who shaded Bagby 147-148 for the top honors in the two day competition of the 30th annual event.

Lilbourn Champs

PARMA -- Risco's upset binge was broken Saturday night in the championship game of the 16-team Parma Babe Ruth invitational baseball tournament at Jackson Field as Lilbourn rallied for three runs in the seventh inning to down the upstarts 5-3.

It was Lilbourn that Risco began its upset string against, putting down Parma and New Madrid along the line and it was the Lilbourn crew that ended the streak.

Pat McClarty struckout 17 batters and singled and tripled for Lilbourn, fanning 10 men for the first 10 outs of the game.

The lefthanded curveballing ace scattered six hits and issued six walks while his opposing hurler, Johnny Bunting, collected five strikeouts and gave up eight hits, three in the fatal seventh frame.

Grant Dambach, one of the tournament's most valuable players, socked a double to drive in two runs in the seventh and scored on Jeff McClarty's basehit.

New Madrid used its seventh inning to overcome a 1-0 deficit and move into third place as Mark Baker socked a three run homer, giving Bill St. Mary the win over Oran.

Both teams battled through four and a half innings of scoreless play before Oran broke the deadlock with a fifth inning score.

Dambach and Randy Terry of Risco were named Most valuable players of the tournament with Baker, Pat McClarty, Elton Bates and Brade Emerson receiving honorable mention.

The sportsmanship award went to the host.

Osteen Stops Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dodger pitcher Claude Osteen said he "had kind of a lazy feeling" when he walked two men in the eighth inning Sunday but then surprised himself.

"I had more left than I thought I had," the lefthander said after preserving his 5-0 shutout against St. Louis. The 4hit win was his 20th shutout in the majors and brought his season record to 14-7.

It snapped a six-game Cardinal winning streak and a fourgame Dodger tailspin.

Osteen gave up a hit in the second and another in the seventh. He walked Tim McCarver and Dal Maxvill in the eighth but overcame that "lazy feeling" to get two ground outs and fanned Lou Brock. "I struck out the guy I had to," he said.

Osteen's helpmate was Bill Sudakis who drove in three runs with a single, double and sacrifice fly. Manager Walter Alston said of the .228 hitting third sacker: "he has to hit if we're going to win."

The last time Sudakis drove in three runs was April 24 in a game Osteen lost to Atlanta, 8-7.

The Dodgers blasted Chuck Taylor for 10 hits and four runs in his six innings of service. It was Taylor's first loss in four decisions. Three singles in the fourth, the last by Sudakis, netted the first run. Sudakis doubled home a run in the two-run sixth and got his third RBI in the eighth with a sacrifice fly after jtom Haller skipped one past centerfielder Curt Flood for a triple.

Ted Sizemore doubled twice, driving in one run in the sixth. He was hit by a pitch in the fifth and came around to score on a bunt single, a sacrifice and a sacrifice fly ball.

The Cards and the Dodgers square off again tonight for the final game of their series. It's Nelson Briles (10-9) against Don Singer (13-7).

Former Farm Agent Honored for Service

WASHINGTON - Lawrence W. Doran, a onetime Missouri extension agent and Ozark resident, has been honored by the United States government for 35 years of federal service. He was advisor for four years to the Republic of Vietnam on agricultural problems.

Doran received the length of service award from Joseph A. Mendenhall, acting assistant administrator for Vietnam in the Agency for International Development, a unit of the state department.

Doran is chief of the agricultural division in AID'S Vietnam bureau. He went to Vietnam in 1962 to help the Vietnamese ministry of agriculture improve the production, distribution and marketing of farm products.

Along with American and Vietnamese experts, he played a principal role in establishing long-range agricultural programs to increase rice, vegetable and fruit production in Vietnam's 44 provinces.

In accepting the service award, Doran commented on the AID program in Vietnam, asserting that in spite of the war its farmers have made steady progress. "The most remarkable achievement," he observed, "was the two-fold increase in rice production through the recent introduction of a 'miracle' rice seed, called IR-8." He noted that the seed has been distributed to more than 21,000 Vietnamese farmers.

Except for a two-year period during World War II when he served as a Navy lieutenant, Doran was agricultural extension agent from 1933 to 1947 in the Missouri counties of Pemiscot, Butler, Iron, Vernon, Hickory, and Lawrence.

After that he was appointed an agricultural specialist for the Army and served in Korea helping to develop better farm programs. Two years later he transferred to the foreign aid program and has since served as an agricultural specialist in Korea, the Philippines, Indonesia, and Thailand, in addition to Vietnam.

Doran received a bachelor of science degree in Livestock from the University of Missouri in 1933. He is married to the former Mildred Melton of Ozark, where both attended school. They have four children, Mrs. Harvey Strothmann Columbia, Mo.; Mrs. J. R. Hopkins of Silver Spring, Md.; Mrs. Roger Stumbo of Concord, Calif.; and Lawrence Jr. of Quincy, Ill.

Doran and his wife live in Takoma Park, Md.

Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Sir,

The local Illmo-Scott City 9 and 10 year old team has just finished playing in your annual tourney. TThis is our seventh year of competition. In these years we have been winner and loser. This year we lost in the finals to Chaffee. Our team was awarded the sportsmanship award and while we certainly tried to display our best feelings, we are not completely sure that we were the most deserving. Your two Sikeston teams were a credit to your community as they lost hard fought games to Chaffee and us. Portageville was certainly due credit as they accepted their loss, by one run, to us.

Your local committee has done an excellent job in running the tourney, but more apparent is the result of their efforts to teach the fundamentals of baseball and more importantly, the game of life. The teams were highly competitive in their play, still they were gracious when they failed. Jim Bollinger and I have always felt your tourney was one of the best run in our area and have appreciated Ron Blumer and his crew in years past. We were disappointed not to see him this year, but the officials this year were fine young men, doing their best.

The Sikeston fans came to see their team win, supported them in their effort, but when this was not their lot, they were great sports. Your paper's coverage of these games is excellent. I know of no other daily in Southeast Missouri that gives quite the same touch to a tourney such as this. These young boys are learning a great lesson in life as they give of their best in an effort to win, yet still are prepared to congratulate the victor.

It is small wonder that National Lock saw something in Sikeston that they liked. The worth of a community shows in such a variety of ways. Good luck to you from those of us in the other end of the county.

Sincerely yours,
Ollie Amick
Illmo, Missouri

Country Western Stars at State Fair

SEDALIA — Country western stars, Porter Wagoner and Kitty Wells, will headline a free Grand Ole' Opry Spectacular, Aug. 24, at the Missouri State Fair.

The spectacular, the second of two at the 1969 Fair, will be free to visitors.

Appearing with them will be Dolly Parton, Bobby Wright, the Tennessee Mountain Boys, comedian Speck Rhodes, Johnny Wright, Bill Phillips, the Wagonmasters and Ruby Wright.

Porter Wagoner, a native of West Plains, is considered by RCA Victor as one of their all-time recording greats. He has appeared on most major TV shows and now stars in the weekly, Porter Wagoner show.

Kitty Wells has been called the Queen of Country Music and rightly so. Four time she has been voted top country singer in the USA. Her famous songs include, "i'll Always Be Your Fraulein," "It Wasn't God Who Made Honky Tonk Angels," "Meanwhile Down at Joe's" and "I'll Repossess My Heart."

Fair Secretary W.C. Askew says "it's all part of our effort to provide top quality entertainment for fair goers. We feel this and the other top talent we bring to the fair all add to the excitement of the "Big One."

Dates for the 1969 Missouri State Fair are Aug. 16-24.

Consumer's Guide

"What, How and When" of Smart Buying

One of the most important jobs that anyone does today is being the "family purchasing agent."

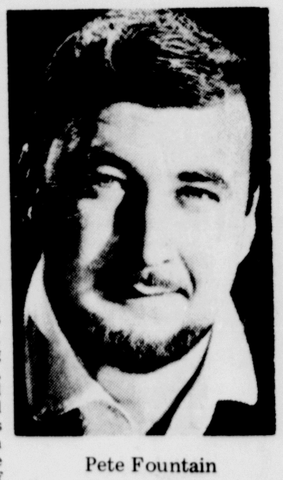
BBB

Those who do it the smart way think very carefully about what, how and when to buy.

First, smart consumers consider exactly what they should buy: they buy only what they can afford, and they think out what their specifications should be, whether it's the size of a dress or capacity of a refrigerator. They also think about how they should buy—cash or credit, and they bear in mind that credit may add to the cost of their purchases.

Smart consumers also give thought to when they buy—and as much as possible during sales, when prices are lower. If you have questions about a company or about a business practice, contact your Better Business Bureau. They may be able to answer your query on the phone, offer you a pertinent BBB pamphlet, or they may have available the new book, "The BBB Consumer's Buying Guide."

Pete Fountain Will Perform at Fair



Pete Fountain

SEDALIA — Jazz lovers will have a real treat in store for them at the 1969 Missouri State Fair.

Pete Fountain will be the featured performer at the free State Fair grandstand show, Aug. 21.

A native of New Orelans, Fountain grew up with the musical history of the Birthplace of Jazz. While some try to brand his music as orthodox Dixieland, or progressive jazz. Fountain prefers to call his music New Orleans jazz. He is a gifted genius with a clarinet.

Although Fountain's success is built on years of hard work, beginning as a teenager playing in French Quarter night spots, his career route was shortened by the millions who saw and heard his artistry for two years on the Lawrence Welk Television show. Although a strange background for his style of music, these appearances gained for Fountain a large army of loyal fans who clamor for each of his new album releases.

In addition to being owner and regular star of his own Bourbon street cabaret, his French Quarter Inn, Fountain has become one of the most consistent and biggest album sellers in his field. He is also a highly sought guest star on such network TV shows as the Bob Hope show, the Ed Sullivan show and many others. Fountain is a sell-out all over the nation in concert appearances and is also the winner of coveted awards from Playboy and Downbeat magazines.

To the Editor:

This may be old stuff, but I have had occasion to re-read the Kerner Report on Civil Disorders. Ever since it was released I have been bothered by something wrong with it.

I do not take exception to the main body of the report, but I wish the commission or a successor one could go into all the riot areas and ask those people who did not riot why they stayed out of it.

I also wish some competent commission could survey and study the 85 per cent of college students who did not participate in the campus disorders and an equally large percentage of young men who do not resist the draft, just as I wish someone could make a study of the 98 per cent (or thereabout) of black people who neither engage in church disruptions asking reparations nor condone them.

Many Americans, young, poor, black, etc., can feel with some justification that they have suffered injustices. Isn't it equally important why these people have never rioted, looted, revolted and militated? Wouldn't it be helpful to know that as to learn why others did?

By asking only the opinions of rioters we seem to say that their response is the only significant response to poverty and discrimination.

But the poor and the black who do not riot also have their motivations and reasons, and they may have more to teach America than do the others. They ought to be heard.

Dear Charley,

The suggestion made by Lawrence Cleek and you of a drinking fountain for Malone Park is a good one and the Sikeston Park Board, with the help of the Board of Public Works, is installing one there as soon as purchase can be made. There was a fountain there many years ago which finally yielded, not to the onslaught of time, but to that of destructive people.

In recent years a good drinking fountain was placed in Clayton Park. It lasted one month before being totally destroyed by vandalism. Let's hope the new one on Malone and the one being repaired in Legion Park fare better.

Very truly yours,
Ruth F. Sharp
(Mrs. Garwood Sharp, Secr. Sikeston Park Board)

Financing Our Enemies

NEVER before has the government of a nation, knowingly and intentionally, financed the actions of individuals and organizations advocating and working toward its destruction. With sadness one must acknowledge that our government is now doing just that.

Dr. Kershner The fifty-one members of New York's Council Against Poverty constitute the governing board of the Community Development Agency. This organization spends over $31 million (fiscal 1968) for the Northeast Regional Office of the federal Office of Economic Opportunity. This vast sum of money was spent by people some of whom proclaim themselves as revolutionaries bent upon destroying our government. They include draft-card burners, saboteurs of the war effort in Vietnam, opponents of religious faith, black nationalists and ex-criminals. Some of them promote riots, defy, taunt and harass the police, assault firemen and work for the violent overthrow of local, state and national government.

Apologists for OEO apparently thought that by putting such persons on the payroll, they could be restrained from subversive activities. Actually, they have used the federal funds made available to them, greatly to step up their organized effort to overthrow our government.

Over and over, throughout history, the practice of paying one's enemies, in the hope that they would then become friends, has been shown to be utterly false. As Kipling said, "The end of that game is oppression and shame, and the nation that plays it is lost." Will we ever learn the great lesson that it is perilous to compromise with the forces of evil?

Howard Kershner's Commentaries. Distributed by the CHRISTIAN FREEDOM FOUNDATION, 3030 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, California 90005

Grass in Cotton Costly To Producer

CARUTHERSVILLE - A grassy sample of cotton may cost a producer $10 to $15 per bale according to Agriculture Extension Agent W. F. James. There appears to be more Johnson grass in cotton fields than usual for this time of year, James says.

With the high costs experienced by many producers in making a cotton crop there may be those reluctant to chop out the Johnson grass. The cost of taking out a few clumps of grass per acre might be the best investment made for the 1969 cotton crop.

Grassy cotton made up one to three per cent of the Missouri cotton classed by the Government Classing office. With mill demands for higher quality cotton it will pay producers to take every precaution to meet their requirements.

"I used to stand up and say the world was a miserable place. Then I would sit down and do nothing about it."

Let's face it.
All is not perfect in this land of ours.
But maybe we should step back and take a long hard look at America.
And maybe we'll come out thinking this country's good side far overshadows its bad.
Then maybe we'll start to do something to make it better.
What can you do? How can one little individual help?

For one thing, you might think about investing in your country.
That's exactly what you do when you sign up to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.
Of course, Savings Bonds are not going to cure all our headaches. But they'll help to provide the economic strength we'll need for the job.
Any way you look at it, they make good sense.
And that's what we need right now.

Herbie Marries For Money; Gets Divorce for Lack of It

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Lois was as pretty as a picture with a frame to match. Nevertheless, she couldn't get Herbie to marry her.

Stubborn as could be, Herbie insisted that since he couldn't support her, he wanted her to marry someone else who was more eligible financially. Equally stubborn, however, Lois was determined to get her man.

Consequently, she promised to give Herbie her life savings if only he would consent to their being knotted. Her argument was that he could use the money to start a business and that he could then support her in the style to which Herbie thought she could be accustomed.

Accepting Lois's argument, the couple got spliced. But, when Herbie thereafter learned that Lois had no life savings to give him, he promptly sued for an annulment.

"It was fraud," Herbie complained in court. "I was tricked. Had I known that Lois was busted, I'd never have married her."

"But I loved him," was Lois's answer. "I had to tell him something or he'd have never married me. Besides, if a man marries a gal for her money and then finds out that she hasn't got any, he's got no grounds to complain. At least in this case," concluded Lois, "Herbie's got me!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Herbie his freedom?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Herbie's ability to support a wife was an important factor in his decision to get married; that by tricking him into believing that he would be able to support her by going into business with her mythical money, Lois obtained Herbie's consent to the marriage by fraud. And, concluded the judge, consent obtained by fraud is no consent.

English Teachers Attend Workshop

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- About 40 high school English teachers are expected to attend a composition workshop which began Monday at Southeast Missouri State College.

The workshop, under the direction of Dr. Henry Sessoms and Dr. Peter Hilty, both professors of English, will run through Friday. Participants will earn one hour of either graduate or undergraduate credit.

Sessions will be held in the Language Arts building on the campus.

According to Dr. Sessoms, who is also head of the English department at Southeast Missouri State, the workshop will focus on the teaching of composition at the high school level and will explore all aspects of composition.

Daily lectures to be presented by the directors will be followed by discussions "to search out ideas and procedures helpful to teachers of composition," he said.

Dr. Sessoms added that this is the first time a workshop of this nature has been tried on the campus. He said he hopes to expand the program to a three-week course in the summer of 1970.

who it might involve," Dirksen said.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader, said Nixon emphasized at the congressional briefing that his call for increased selfreliance in Asian defense represents an important shift in American policy.

"He emphasized that there was a new shift," Mansfield said. Mansfield said,

Mansfield said the new policy was based on the statements Nixon made July 25 at Guam, as he began his Asian journey.

Nixon said then the nations of Asia must bear increasing responsibility for their own defense, and indicated the United States would intervene there militarily only in cases of external aggression.

"I said that I agreed with his basic premise," Mansfield said after the two hour, 40 minute session at the White House.

Twenty-two members of Congress from both parties attended the session along with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Rep. George H. Mahon, DTex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said Nixon "was obviously highly pleased" with the trip.

"He didn't claim to have solved our problems, but his trip was a step in the right direction," Mahon said.

Mansfield said general application of the Nixon policy, which the senator called the Guam doctrine, will have to await an end to the Vietnam war.

"In areas not involved in the war, it will be the doctrine which will guide our actions in the future," Mansfield said.

The senator said the Nixon policy precludes U.S. intervention in cases of internal subversion in Asia.

"It emphasizes that the United States is a Pacific power with peripheral interests on the Asian mainland," Mansfield said.

He said that means the responsibility for Asian defense will be borne by Asians, with an assurance that the United States will consider assistance to help bring them economic stability.

"I would say that the Guam declaration marks a watershed in the history of the Pacific region," Mansfield said.

He said Nixon also discussed his two days in Romania, and indicated an interest in increasing East-West trade.

"He didn't get down into specifics," Mansfield said.

He said Nixon also expressed a hope for an increasing cultural exchange with Communist nations.

Noting that everywhere he went—from populous Asia to communist Romania—the young people in particular were captivated by the U.S. Apollo man landing on the moon, Nixon said upon his arrival home:

"Some way, when those two Americans stepped on the moon, the people of the world were brought closer together. ...

"The spirt of Apollo transcends geographical barriers and political differences. It can bring the people of the world together in peace."

Follow-Through program is financed with 90 percent federal funds and 10 percent local funds. Fifty percent of the students enrolled in the Follow-Through classes must be graduated of a year-round Head Start program.

R-1 Enlarged District has an enrollment of 4,214 from Kindergarten through the eighth grade, and 1,541 from the ninth through the twelfth grade, making a total of 5,755 students.

The new district will have completed integrating all classes with the opening of school in August.

The district has plans for an expanded vocational program, however, approval of the EDA application for a trade school will be necessary before real progress can be made with the program. Application for an entitle grant has been made and is now in the Washington Office of EDA. Promise of approval has been made, but to date has not been granted. If and when this application is approved, it will be for instruction at both the consisting of forty acres adjacent to I-55 and Old Highway 61 at New Madrid overpass, is in the process of being surveyed in order to prepare an abstract for purchase.

The problem of staffing schools with qualified personnel is a major problem. However, courses for in-service training and for certification of teachers in special areas will be available through the Delta Center at Portageville. The Delta Center is now prepared to fly instructors from the University of Missouri each week to conduct night classes.

A tax rate of $3. was set by the Board of Education and approved in the April election. The valuation of the district, including railroad and utilities, before the recent increase in county valuation was approximately $44,000,000.00. We do not know, at this time, how much this will be increased by virtue of the recent increase in county assessments. Should this increase in assessments exceed 10 percent of the present valuation, it will be mandatory that the Board of Education lower the tax rate to the level where it will bring in the same revenue as voted by the patrons.

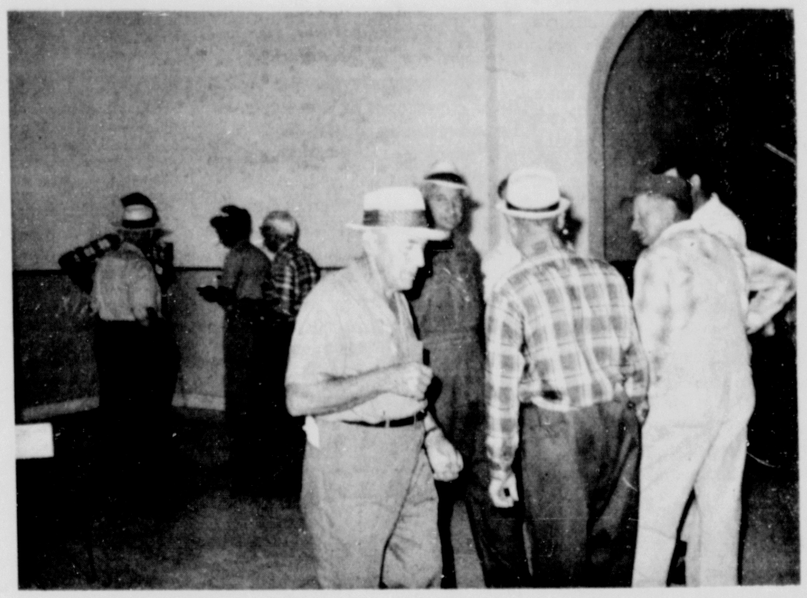
Farmers Protest at Courthouse While County's Tax Reduced



FEW SMILES COULD be seen this morning after farmers made a appearance before the Scott County Court in a futile attempt to get the $7 million assessment increase rescinded. About 60 farmers from the northern end of the county appeared to protest the increase.

While about 60 North-end farmers gathered at the Scott County Courthouse today to protest a $7 million increase in tax assessments as ordered by the State Tax Commission, an overall 16- cent tax rate reduction for the county was announced by Phil Waldman, county clerk.

The taxpayers appeared before County Court 10 a.m. this morning, but no action was taken by the court. Court members told the protesters to appeal their complaints to the County Board of Appeals next Monday.

Some of the protesters asked the court to rescend the increase and reassess all the land in the county. They don't think the increases were made fairly. One farmer said he wouldn't mind the increase if "I was sure we were being treated fairly."

Several protesters favored a plan to rescend the increase called for, then to make up the $7 million increase, called for by the state, with a blanket plan in which each taxpayer would pay more.

As it stands now, the court raised the land valuations on several persons in the county after they reviewed land assessments and found these persons' land valuations were lower than the valuation should be.

Dewey Dicus, Benton, a spokesman for the protesting farmers said, "I think we're getting the run around." "We hope to meet again Wednesday night," Dicus said, "after our lawyers, Joslyn and Joslyn Charleston, have reviewed the situation."

Members of the court are willing to listen to the protesters at the Board of Appeals, Monday.

The state tax commission ordered the $7 million increase, and the Court is calling for the increase in the manner it thinks fairest.

While the farmers continued to discuss the situation among themselves after they talked to the court, Phil Waldman announced county tax reduction which came as a result of the $7 million increase called for.

The county tax rate was cut by ten per cent, making it 45 cents instead of 50 cents. The Johnson Grass rate was cut 50 per cent, making it two cents rather than four cents.

County road and bridge rate was cut 20 per cent, a making it 28 cents instead of 35 cents, and the Sikeston special road district was reduced from 20 cents to 18 cents.

New rates for the County Health and school district taxes were not announced today.

Judge J. E. Childress announced the following schedule for the Board of Appeals.

Monday, Aug. 11; 9 a.m. to 12 a.m., 1 p.m.. to 4 p.m., farmlands.

Tuesday, Aug. 12, 9 a.m. to 12 a.m., Scott City, Illmo, Chaffee.

Tuesday, Aug. 12, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Vanduser, Blodgett Rockview, Commerce, Kelso, Benton, Morley, Diehlstadt, Oran, Miner and Perkins.

Wednesday, Aug. 13, 9 a.m. to 12 a.m., 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., Sikeston.

Childress said farmers may appeal at their scheduled time and in time left over after the other desinated towns have appealed.

Additional Troop Reduction Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was quoted today as telling congressional leaders another contingent of U.S. troops probably will be withdrawn from Vietnam beginning this month.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Nixon discussed that prospect at a briefing on his journey to Asia and Communist Romania, a trip which included a visit to Vietnam.

Dirksen said Nixon discussed his hopes about the future there and expressed "the evident belief that we'll probably have a further troop replacement and it could come probably before the end of this month."

Dirksen said he used the word "replacement" to indicate that South Vietnamese troops will be taking over for Americans who are withdrawn.

He said there was no indication at the White House session of how many men would be involved in a new pullout.

There has been speculation that it will involve another 25,000 men, the same number pulled back after Nixon's Midway Island meeting with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

"Further he noted that Nixon conferred in South Vietnam with Gen. Creighton Abrams, the U.S. commander there, and with American diplomats.

"He spoke no doubt, on the basis of the information that he got from our military leaders," Dirksen said.

He said there was also a general discussion of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, and an indication that information "from private sources might be brought to bear." Dirksen said no specific information was disclosed.

"There was no indication as to the source of that effort or

Applications for Crop Insurance Being Taken in New Madrid County

If not a single stalk of wheat grew to maturity in New Madrid County this year due to unavoidable causes, farmers would still have $44,073 in assured buying power.

That's the amount the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., a non- profit agency of the USDA, stands ready to provide insured wheat growers here in case of crop failure, reports Ed Heckert field representative for FCIC from the district office at New Madrid.

He is now in the county for a limited time visiting with farmers and taking applications for All-Risk insurance on the 1970 and following wheat crops.

Changes have been made in the wheat insurance program for 1970 in 41 of the 60 Missouri counties where it is available. Bushel guarantees have been increased in 30 counties while rates adjustments have been made in 30 counties.

"All changes are relatively minor in nature and are done periodically in each of the 39 states where programs operate a to keep them abreast of production trends, increasing costs and actual loss experience," Heckert reports.

The New Madrid County program has no changes.

Under FCIC's plan, farmers are guaranteed an established quantity of good quality grain. If drouth (except where irrigated), freeze, excess heat, flood, insects, wind, disease or any of 120 natural hazards drop yields below the guarantee, Federal Crop Insurance pays a cash loss.

These payments come in farm communities largely dependent upon an agricultural economy and at a time when the earning power of farmers is below normal due to crop losses. Thus, the money tends to stabilize local farm buying power at a time it is most needed.

More than 1,193 acres of wheat are protected in the county under the program for 1969 and FCIC hopes even more can be protected for 1970. The program is entirely voluntary, Heckert says.

Train Blast Rips Missouri Town

NOEL, Mo. (AP) — "It blew the hell out of things," said Kenneth Meador.

One piece of metal ripped through a wall of Mrs. Roxa Miller's house, killing the 47 year-old beauty parlor operator.

An 800-pound railroad car wheel soared three blocks and smashed into the home of Virgil Bentley, seriously injuring his wife.

Roofs caved in. Walls buckled. Main street was carpeted with shattered glass from store fronts. More than 40 persons were injured. Pieces of shattered railroad cars were thrown half a mile. At the site of the explosion there was a hole 15 feet deep and 50 feet across in the railway roadbed.

"Practically every building in town is damaged," said Meador, who operates a gas station.

The mystery blast shattered a 115-car Kansas City Southern freight train as it was passing through the community Sunday.

About 3:45 a.m. as the freight train rolled into Noel en route from Kansas City to Shreveport, La., the crew spotted a fire on one of the cars.

"They tried to get the train out of town before it blew up, but they didn't make it," said J.W. Braswell, local station agent.

There was a relatively minor first explosion.

The volunteer fire department and some other residents were rushing to the scene when a second, devastating blast occurred. The sound of the explosion was heard as far as 40 miles away.

Ambulances, fire trucks, law enforcement officials and volunteers from communities in nearby Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kansas rushed to Noel. Most of the injured were taken to hospitals in Gravette and Bentonville, Ark.

Railroad officials were uncertain just what blew up. Chief suspects were cars carrying dehydrated alfalfa and ammonium perchlorate—the latter an oxidizing agent in powder form used as a propellant in munitions.

The explosion severed some pipes on a propane gas tank standing beside the racks, and a fire ignited which began burning off escaping fumes.

Authorities feared the 12,500 gallon tank would explode and perhaps touch off two other tanks next to it.

Police ordered the town evacuated at 2 p.m. while employes of the Empire Gas Co. rigged a 2½-inch pipeline to the tank's main valve. Just before 6 p.m. they turned a valve allowing the propane to flow in liquid form through the pipe and ignited it.

News Briefs

Dayan Issues Offense Call

TEL AVIV (AP) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan called on Israelis today to take the offensive against Egyptian forces along the Suez Canal, but warned against a confrontation with Soviet military advisers stationed there.

Dayan told a meeting of Israel's ruling Labor party it is not enough for Israelis to fight a defensive action along the 103- mile waterway "sitting in a bunker keeping your head down."

The situation calls for offensive action against Egypt's breaches of the cease - fire, he said, such as air raids and ground thrusts by Israeli commandos into Egypt.

"But we have to be very selective in these actions," Dayan warned, "and take every measure to avoid a relationship with the Russians."

Dayan said Soviet advisers not only counsel Egyptian forces on how to use their weapons, they are now telling them "what must be done."

Alsco Loses Rocket Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has taken its rocket launcher business away from a St., Louis firm which cheated the government on previous contracts. New contracts with other companies will save as much as 38 per cent of previous costs.

Nine contracts for more than a quarter million 2.75- inch rocket launchers were awarded by the Navy from July 1963 through July 1968 to Chromcraft Corp. of St. Louis, which became Techfab Division of Alsco, Inc., when the two companies merged in 1966. The awards were granted on a sole source basis - that is without competitive bidding.

New contracts awarded to Varo Inc., of Garland, Tex., for 54,000 launchers and Talley Industries of Mesa, Ariz., for 59,041 launchers were let through competitive bidding, and the price came tumbling down.

Last year, Alsco and several individuals were twice indicted by federal grand juries, once in Washington on charges they created phantom suppliers and received kickbacks on launcher contracts, and once in St. Louis on charges of illegally exporting arms to Belgium.

Arson Suspected In 2 Fires

Suspicion of arson is being investigated in two of three fire calls the Sikeston Fire Department responded to on Sunday, Acting Fire Chief Dolph Webb said today.

Webb said that both the fire at a small house, destroyed at the rear of 212 Alabama at 12:08 a.m. and the setting of a large trash pile at the corner of West Malone and Clayton, reported at 12:57 a.m., were under investigation.

The third fire occurred as a result of a kitchen stove flaming from a gas leak occurred at 7:20 p.m. in the house at 846 Ruth Street.

THE PORTAGEVILLE Housing project is rapidly taking shape. Work is being done on streets as well as on the houses. Completion of some units is slated for late August.

$3,307,761 Budget Approved For New Madrid R-1 District

PORTAGEVILLE -- The New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged District made up of the following component districts, New Madrid, Lilbourn, Parma, Matthews, and Portageville, has been reorganized for one year. This is the largest reorganization in area that has occurred in the State of Missouri to date. A reorganization of this magnitude has necessitated many changes. There are many things yet to be done; we have plans for some forward steps this year. Moving ahead in the development of a Vocational Program is one of the items high on our list of priorities. It will take time to implement some of the programs and plans that have already been projected.

The centralization of accounting, record keeping, reporting and financial transactions has already been set up in a central office, and a centralized program of purchasing has been instituted.

At the last board meeting, the board approved a $3,307,761. budget with the following totals for expenditure for the 1969-70 school year: Administration, $118,400; Instruction, $1,915,984; Attendance & Health Services $4,380; Pupil Transportation, $213,000; Operation of Plant, $215,750; Maintenance, $46,600; Fixed Charges, 187,000; Debt Service, 171,207; Payments between districts, $3,100; Capital Outlay, $160,975; Food Services, $212,700 and Student Body Activities, $58,000. Title I Report for 1969-70 School year based upon 90 percent of eligibility of preliminary allocations is $619,489.

The five schools that now comprise the recently reorganized district were classified on an individual basis for the 1968-69 school year by the State Department of Education as follows:

Lilbourn A-rating - 43½ units offered.

Matthews A-rating - 47½ units offered.

New Madrid A-rating - 38 units offered.

Parma A-rating - 43¾ units offered.

Portageville AAA-rating - 64 units offered.

This is the last year the districts will be classified on an individual district basis.

The district will make an effort to attain the AAA classification in the near future. Plans for the next year call for speech correction teachers necessary for all students of the enlarged district, the addition of homeliving courses for all eighth grade girls, and shop courses for all eighth grade boys. All schools plan to provide secondary special education classes.

The Marston High School building is being remodeled and will house twelve sections of elementary grades of the old Lilbourn district. The sections will receive remedial instruction and will be limited to an enrollment of twenty students per class.

School patrons are invited to visit the Marston school at their earliest convenience, for the plant improvement is tremendous.

The old Portageville district will continue with the breakfast program that has operated the past three years under the National Child Nutrition Act and also will continue the Follow-Through program. The program will be expanded from two classes to a total of seven classes for the coming year. The

NO STRIKEBREAKING HERE

One of New Jersey's large manufacturing plants recently was hit by a strike over a wage dispute. The workers formed their picket lines and the company's gates were closed to all but supervisory personnel. We have heard of no violence associated with the work stoppage, but one of the sidelights of the union walkout was interesting. A union shop steward idled by the strike was allowed by his county welfare board to collect welfare payments. The taxpayers were, in effect, paying the man to strike. The company hit by the strike pays a large amount in taxes. It was paying one of its employees to stay at home while its machinery was idle.

Relief payments are fine, but isn't this a bit foolish? Couldn't the welfare system make some sort of special arrangement in cases like this? Why should taxpayers pay for maintaining employed persons who are out of work of their own free will? While it is possible that the employee in question may not have voted in favor of a strike, he is still a part of the union local using a strike to gain a pay hike. The oddest part of the affair is that the public will pay double for this. They will pay the tab for the welfare checks received by the striker, and they will likely pay increased retail prices for the salary increase granted to the company's employees.

How needy was the family? They own their own home - a six- room house with a finished bedroom and lavatory in the basement. They have two cars, an eighteen - foot camper trailer, a color tv, a freezer, washer, dryer, a five-foot deep backyard swimming pool and, acquired while the strike was in progress, a motorcycle.

In temporary welfare cases such as this, wouldn't it be fairer to establish some sort of loan assistance, to be administered through welfare agencies, and perhaps guaranteed by them? This would obligate the striker to repay the money.

On this basis, we at least would not be subsidizing the total cost of strikes and encouraging their continuance.

WHAT THE BANKS ARE SAYING

According to our financial observer who spends some of his time in the canyons of Wall Street, the increase in the prime rate to 8-½ per cent this week may have shaken up a few "easy money" men but the real clincher was the move in the Treasury bill market.

He writes: "We've been in this business more than 40 years and, during that time, we have witnessed the peaks and the valleys in our economy. Believe me, we can sympathize -- with the feelings but not the ideas -- of the 'easy money' crowd. Boy, oh boy, are they mad.

"When the New York bankers took the money belt in another notch we were in Phoenix talking with some real down-to-earth businessmen and farmers. You don't find this type in New York. You can hear the yelps from Washington 'easy money' crowd all the way out there. Those Washington fellows don't mind spending and running deficit budgets but when the bill is presented and must be paid, it surely shakes them up. I say right now, without any hedging, that we will have a lot more pressure put on the economy if the high interest rates don't work. The 8-½ per cent prime level is a record rate. It is only one of many new money rate records being set. We are in a period that is unlike anything we have seen in this century -- and the investor had better take heed of this . . .

"The medicine we are swallowing now we've needed for a long time. There is still more coming if this doesn't work. Over a year ago we said that, if the surtax-monetary restriction combination didn't work, then we could expect wage and price controls at the end of the road. We don't want this anymore than anyone else but believe me they are in the wings. Keep your eyes open and you will see the trial balloons being sent up . . .

"The jump in the prime rate of a full percentage point to 8-½ per cent may have seemed big to some but remember the big banks are using this to get across a message. They are telling their customers to hold off your money needs . . . we don't have the cash to meet your demands . . . slow down. If businessmen, municipal officials and investors don't get this message they had better wake up in a hurry. Time is running out and the money well is drying up . . . "

And that's about as straight-talk that you'll read in a country daily newspaper who asked a question of an expert and got the above answer.

One man may become an idler and a drunkard, but his ruin does not mean ruin for sober industrious men.

"A ready-to-buy frame of mind" is a consumer characteristic created uniquely by newspaper advertising, according to the Media Director of a major advertising agency.

Food shopping was used as an example:

"In the food area, we have a built-in assurance of mood and environment going for us because of the shopping habits of the consumer. More often than not the consumer will consult her newspaper just prior to her shopping expedition on what we call 'best food day'."

The advertising media specialist pointed out that other merchants and dealers could use the newspaper with the same effectiveness secured by grocers.

"Put it in terms of the automobile business and the edge it would offer if you were fairly assured that you could use a medium which you knew would be referred to just prior to a day of showroom visits," he suggested.

The use of newspaper advertising in almost all types of retailing gives the advantage of "knowing that our target is in a ready-to-buy frame of mind. This is an ideal set of circumstances" for completing a sale.

It could be added that thorough coverage of the local market by newspaper also creates an ideal shopping situation for the consumer as well as the seller.

The consumer who has adequately pre-shopped in his local newspaper knows what he is doing. He responds to the advertising only if he is in the mood to buy. He does not waste his time moving from store to store, or from town to town.

FOOTBALL'S LONG SEASON

The Super Bowl champion New York Jets will launch the 1969-70 professional football season when they play the College All-Stars in Chicago on Friday, Aug. 1. Five professional team exhibition games are scheduled for the following night. The football season -- spanning three calendar seasons -- won't end until next January.

This year's College All-Stars have less twinkle than previous squads. Those who will not be playing include O. J. Simpson, Leroy Keyes, Joe Greene and Ron Sellers -- the first, third, fourth and sixth players, respectively, picked by the pro teams in last January's American Football League - National Football League draft of college seniors.

The reason for this absenteeism is that the players involved have not yet come to terms with the teams that drafted them. Simpson, regarded by many as potentially the greatest running back ever to play football, has asked the Buffalo Bills for a five-year, $650,000 contract, plus a $500,000 loan for investment purposes. Bills owner Ralph Wilson Jr. reportedly countered with a five-year, $250,000 contract and turned down the loan request.

The remaining unsigned players may eventually sign for this season. Even though pro football is hard work, it pays well for six months of punishment. A poll taken last January by the National Football League Players Association showed that average salaries ranged from a high of $30,548 on the Baltimore Colts to a low of $22,290 on the Pittsburgh Steelers.

AN UNUSUAL REPORT

A Congressional subcommittee recently issued a report, bearing a title "Economic Analysis of Public Investment Decisions," that is enough to scare the nonexpert reading public into the next county. But despite the title, the report contains some unusual recommendations, coming as it does from within the ranks of the greatest spending body in the world. As Ralph de Toledano expresses it, the report " . . . . proposes that when the federal government takes a buck from the taxpayer, it should be investe in a way that will return a buck to the Treasury."

If the report is taken seriously by Congress, it will mean hard sledding for government in business projects that have thrived on tax and interest subsidies and other privileges not enjoyed by private, taxpaying commercial enterprises. The report contains such observations as the following: " . . . no public investment be deemed 'economic' or 'efficient' if it fails to yield overall benefits which ae are at least as great as those which the same resources would have produced if left in the private sector . . . . the financing of the federal government entails a reduction in both private consumption and private investment spending . . . "

The report calls on the Bureau of the Budget and federal agencies to "intensify their efforts to formulate accurate monetary estimates of the benefits and costs of public investments," and points an unwavering finger at congressional spenders with the admonition, "The purpose of the federal government as an investor should be to sustain the private sector and not to exploit s ppriv ate citizens to achieve its own ends." These are strong words, and they apply directly to largely tax-exempt competitive business ventures of government such as electric power.

Gloom and Doom Report, 1969

Viewing the picture painted by Defense Secretary Melvin Laird before the Senate Armed Services Committee, one is overcome by a feeling of deja vu. We have seen it all before – more than once.

Not since the "missile gap" of 1960 has the United States been in such dire peril on so many fronts.

There is no light at the end of the Vietnam tunnel; there is not even an end to the tunnel. There can be no reduction of U.S. troops, said Laird, until all the North Vietnamese go home.

In Laos, 40,000 Vietnamese "could probably overrun the nation at will."

In Korea, "Peace hangs by a slender thread."

British withdrawal from South Asia makes that area a "potential security problem."

The Middle East "verges on an active state of war, with thyimminent threat of expansion."

Not only has the Soviet challenge in Europe grown more dangerous, but Russia now has more ballistic missiles than we do and is proceeding with the development of a multiple warhead delivery system and supermegaton warheads which could "essentially destroy" all our Minuteman missiles in their underground silos without direct hits.

Even our Polaris submarine fleet, a surviving fraction of which could obliterate the U.S.S.R., will not be an "adequate" deterrent beyond 1972, for reasons which the secretary did not wish to go into in public.

In sum, "never before have the challenges to our national security exceeded in number and gravity those which we found upon taking office."

We should be grateful for small favors, however. The secretary did not report that the sky is falling.

Big oil's chickens are coming home to roost when the 27½% depletion allowance was passed (by the lawmakers it was said it was for the puprose of searching for new oil, but as most folks in Swamp East Mo., knows at about that time big inch pipeline was pumping oil from Texas and the talk in inner circles was that crude would be pumped from S.E. mo., to be last instead of from Texas that was in the good-ole days when the news media indicated the price of a lawmaker was $2500,00 and Sen case refused a bribe at that price than proceeded to tell it in open Senate papers was full of it at that time.

H.L. Hunt Says

ABM DEFENSE URGENTLY NEEDED

If those gullible Senators were to succeed in blocking the deployment of the Anti-Ballistic Missile Defense System we could be at the mercy of "nuclear blackmail" from either the Soviet Union or Communist China in just a very few years.

The theory of the ABM System is that in the event of a communist missle attack against the United States, the U.S. could detect and destroy the enemy's missiles before they reach us.

Soviet Russia is developing sophisticated new weapons. Instead of debating what the Kremlin's intentions may or may not be, it would seem logical to decide any issue in favor of the safety of our country.

Communist China has successfully tested Hydrogen bombs at their nuclear weapons testing center at Lopnor, in Sinkiang Province. It is only a matter of time before they develop the capability of delivering missiles to targets in the United States.

Would the communists dare to wage nuclear war? Lenin has stated, "It doesn't matter if three quarters of the world is wiped out, if the remaining one quarter is communist." The belligerent Mao Tse-Tung has made similar statements.

The key to the situation is timing. It is necessary to begin immediate construction of at least a few of the ABM sites, to have them ready at the time that the communists have pefected the weapons they could use against us.

Yet, the hard core opponents of the ABM in the Senate, are most emphatic on just that point, that there be absolutely no construction or deployment.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON--There are four reasons why last week's stock market slide caused worry in Wall Street and Washington:

1) The spiral of ever-increasing wages, consumers goods prices plus taxes is squeezing the middle class. And when the middle class, with the biggest aggregate buying power in the nation, starts to lose that power, recession can accelerate.

2) Increased wages are sending the cost of U.S. exports so high that we are pricing ourselves out of foreign markets. This is equivalent to the tariff barriers erected by the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act in the Hoover Administration which helped trigger the great depression.

3) Interest rates are so high that building construction, hitherto the bell ringer of the economy, has slowed up.

4) The European Economy was kept at a high level after World War I by reparations payments from Germany which were pumped into France, England and Italy. But where did that reparations money actually come from? Not from Germany but from Wall Street Loans to Germany, negotiated in part by John Foster Dulles, then the attorney for the bankers.

When these loans began to bounce, as they did midway through Hoover's first term, the entire economy of Europe and the United States started collapsing. Thus began the great depression.

Following World War II, the United States pumped huge amounts of foreign aid, at one time totalling around $8 billion a year, into foreign economies. We have now cut this down to a trickle. This could have the same effect as curtailing bank loans and reparations after World War I.

The United States today has erected many more economic safeguards than existed in Hoover's day. Nevertheless, some of the same 1929-31 ingredients exist and they are causing political and economic uneasiness not only on Wall Street but all over Europe.

--Long Stock Market Decline--

The stock market has been in a major decline for two months, and individual stock investors have lost millions and even billions of dollars. Major industrial firms are cutting back on Capital spending plans. The latest University of Michigan survey of consumer buying intentions shows consumers are becoming pessimistic; they expect inflation to grow.

In the United States, wages and prices continue spiraling with no end in sight. Taxes are hitting everyone's income as government costs keep soaring. Yet people are buying new cars, new appliances, new homes, new clothes as if they had money-making machines. Young couples with husband and wife both working are living on a scale of affluence that would mean instant catastrophe if either lost their job. And very few of them have any savings which could cushion them through a long period of unemployment.

Illustrating the zooming labor costs, Asphalt truck drivers in New York last month won a wage increase of $57 a week, which will net them $266.80 for a 40-hour week – far more than is made by most University teachers and by highly skilled professional workers.

In New York, these and other increases will boost the cost of building labor by 35 per cent. The building trades unionists will have more money to spend on their homes, but there will be fewer homes for other people in New York.

--No Inflation Curbs--

So far the Nixon administration, though concerned about inflation has done little to curb it. When kindly Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy was asked at a private luncheon what was to be done regarding the high cost of labor in the New York building trades, he replied: "The construction companies don't need to hire them."

When asked what would be done in the case of a strike in the building trades, he replied: "That's the problem of the Secretary of Labor."

Despite this bland approach, Secretary Kennedy has gone further than any other cabinet member in proposing energetic controls on inflation -- namely, wage and price controls. But, each time, his chief in the White House, Richard Nixon, hit the ceiling. The President has been so irked that White House staff members are making "book" that Kennedy will be the first staff member to go.

So the economy has continued drifting. President Nixon is still relying on "conventional means"--high interest rates and tight money--to curb inflation. But clearly they are not working.

There is no question but that the recent decline in the stock market was welcomed by the top men in Wall Stret and the Bankers who are working closely with Washington.

But once a depression starts it isn't easy to stop. If one hits the United States the whole free world will be involved, since foreign nations would lose their markets in the United States and their economies would collapse also.

Governments would topple. The government of Italy is trying to extricate itself from the difficult bind right now. One Italian general, Giovanni Di Lorenzo, was removed as chief of staff for plotting against the government. Significantly, he was promptly elected by the people to be a member of parliament, where he has immunity.

Adolph Hitler came to power in Germany largely because of that country's economic chaos.

A lot of people still remember the collapse of the stock market in 1929, the long bread lines, the men selling apples on the streets, millions of families going hungry every day.

It doesn't have to happen here. But it could happen unless we take vigorous measures to combat it.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Making of a Confrontation:

Gov't Warns Black Labor Federations Against Wildcat Picketing

Washington, D.C.: -- In mid-July, a federal agency dispatched one of its runners (he walked) to hand-deliver a communication to a noted Chicago attorney--and sent carbon copies to the Black Labor Federation, the Afro-American Employes of Hotpoint (near Chicago) and some of their militant leaders.

The document, written in government English, took considerable translation from the original bureaucratic formalism. What it says, in effect, is:

Don't picket. Don't disrupt. Don't it down inside the plant. Don't paralyze production. You are, in the eyes of the law, labor organizations. But this same law recognizes you don't have a contract regardless of the number of Negroes and Spanish-speaking employes in the big GE installation at Cicero, Ill. So obey the law.

"All parties concerned, however," said the government letter, "are put on notice that any repetition by the parties charged of that type of conduct described above, which occurred in October 1968 . . . . will be proceeded against promptly . . . . "

Years from now some eagle-eyed writer, working on the Making of a Revolution or The New Labor Movement will note this letter as the beginning of major confrontations on the socio-industrial complex front.

The letter, delivered the past July 15, was written by the National Labor Relations Board Acting Regional Director to the attorney for General Electric, which obviously sells much more than moon landings.

Back in October 1968, its Hotpoint subsidiary had charged the Afro-Americans, and Robert Lucas, president and agent of the Black Labor Federation, 33 out of some 1,200 Puerto Rican and black, blue-collar employes at Hotpoint had picketed, sat down, sat in, refused to work, demanded they be recognized as the official coective bargaining agent and stalled production for a day or so.

General Electric's officers noted that they have a contract with the Sheet Metal Workers Local 571 running until Oct. 26, 1969. They observed that virtually none of the 33 per cent of the plant's work force who are Negro and Spanish-speaking paid more than a hoot of attention to the AFro-American picket line. So the company filed unfair labor practices charges against the Plunkett-Lucas organizations. This set a precedent. It took courage.

The attacks came soon enough. Low in the saddle where the SDS pamphleteers. They accused the company of discrimination through Hotpoint recruits heavily in the hard-core unemployment areas and pays a bonus to those bringing in new workers.

It goes all out with educational programs, orientation courses, and special pay for steady attendance.

Nine months after the Afro-American picketing the regional labor board dispatched its letter to GE's counsel, Theophil C. Kammholz. The board dismissed the charge because all had been quiet on the Hotpoint front. But the blunt warning to Messrs. Plunkett and Lucas is there.

The board warns that no picketing, on the same grounds, will be tolerated. Nor will disruption of production be ignored. The board, if defied, will go to the courts. The bench then can be expected to enjoin the pickets. If the judges are ignored, they can fine or imprison the defiant ones.

There's the making of the confrontation.

We talk not of extremists here. The Afro-American Employes of Hotpoint and the Chicago-based Black Labor Federation are but the counterparts of hundreds of such units. There are Black Caucuses in hundreds of big cities. Their names vary. Some come as the United Black Brotherhood which disrupted Ford at Mahwah, N.J. Some are known as Ad Hock committees as in the huge steel plants. Some are just Black Caucuses as in the Transport Workers Union – which is the clearest reflection of the unrecognized industrial revolution.

Almost everybody remembers the Irish-brogued, fire-tongued, rapier-humored late president of the TWU, Mike Quill. He made his saucy way at the head of an almost all-Irish union of subway and bus workers.

Beloved Mike's last hurrah came as he ripped a $62 million raise for his people from New York's Mayor John Lindsay. That came in the early hours of 1966. Even then he noted the change. Almost half his membership was black and Spanish-speaking. Today, the rating is higher. The big city's transit hiring now runs 70 per cent black to 30 per cent white.

And so the change creeps on – everywhere. The rank and file is changing, even if the leadership is not.

It's a new rank and file. Not only does it want a piece of the action. It wants action. And from it spring thousands of Willie Plunketts and Robert Lucases.

They meet. They plan strategy just as old caucuses did. And they will hit the bricks again. They will defy the boards, the courts and labor's leadership. The executives of commerce and industry will be caught in the middle. So will the government. For on it will rest the making of a decision – to a fine, or to arrest, or to turn away.

The hand-delivered letter said there will be a confrontation. We'll see.

Ann Landers

Mentally Retarded Son Is Challenge To All

Dear Ann Landers: Our retarded son, Al, is nearly 13. His mentality has been at the three year level for the past five years.

Al is large for his age and getting stronger all the time. I can't handle him as I once did. This past year he has beated up his younger brothers several times. They are not permitted to strike him. My husband gets furious and hits Al with a belt. I can't bear to see this, yet I realize something must be done.

Three doctors have told us to institutionalize the boy but I can't bring myself to do it. My mother says God has sent us this child to test our Christian mettle and we must bear this cross and not seek easy answers.

I need your advice. --- Sleepless Nights, Tortured Days

Dear Sleepless and Tortured: You have already gotten advice from three authorities who are much closer to the situation than I am. I hope you take it. And please tell your mother that institutionalizing a child is no "easy answer." It is a difficult move, but often the best solution for all concerned.

Dear Ann Landers: Six years ago I met a girl through mutual friends. The gang wanted to go to a movie I had already seen. The girl wasn't particularly interested in the movie and suggested that we just walk around town. We had a pleasant evening and ended up at a coffee house. When the check came it was $2.10. I was 60 cents short. I searched in every pocket, knowing I wouldn't find any more money. Finally, the girl made a joke of it and said, "Let me treat you." I agreed.

I never saw her after that because we moved out of town a few months later. I've thought about her many times since and I'm sorry I didn't keep in touch. I know where she lives and I'd like to send her the $2.10 plus interst, but I'm afraid she's got me down as a heel. What do you think?-- Debt Unpaid

Dear Un: Don't send money. Send, instead, a bouquet of flowers, a box of candy or a book. Attach a note thanking her for the coffee and appologize for being six years late.

Dear Ann Landers: Some time ago you printed a letter from a young man who was heartbroken because he and his girl friend had gone too far and her parents would not let her see him again. The one sentence in his letter that I was struck by went something like this: "I'd give anything if I could live that part of my life over again. I would be perfectly content just to hold her hand.

I wish you'd reprint that letter, Ann. So many young girls today feel they must be sexually permissive in order to keep their boyfriends interested. The truth is the boys would gladly take "no" for an answer. In fact they'd prefer it.

We have a lovely daughter who reads your column regularly and this notion is one which she and some of her girl friends need to get through their heads. Please? --- Concerned Mother

Dear Mother: Your letter served the purpose. Thanks for writing.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage --- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers incare of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Lady Lineman In Oklahoma

WILBURTON, Okla. (AP) — Look there, up in the sky. Is it a mirage? Is it a stunt? No, it's Linda Little, lady lineman.

Her female form perched atop a telephone pole is no new sight around this southeast Oklahoma town. Linda, 22, has been climbing for years for her family owned Oklahoma Western Telephone Co.

"I was reared in a phone company," explains the petite mother of two. "When my father was alive, I used to follow him around. He would take me out in all kinds of weather.

"I found out I'd rather shinny up a pole to be close to him than to stay down on the ground where I could be hit with a pair of pliers that were dropped."

Her father, the late Luther Morris, founded the phone company, which now serves nine towns. Her mother is semiretired from the company and "about all she does is sign the checks," said Mrs. Little.

"I remember my dad telling me that it was important to know every phase of the work so if anything happened, I could take over," she said. "There hasn't been any part of it that I haven't done."

Mrs. Little, who lives at Clayton, Okla., used to work a switchboard in the family telephone system before it went to dialing.

"One thing about climbing, it'll sure keep you trim," she said.

'Fat Ladies' Find Strength In Sharing Concern With TOPS

By SUSAN SHEMWELL

In the basement of a home in a middle-class section of town, 30 women are helping each other overcome what they call a psychological problem -- overeating.

"Where do you walk? Call me and I'll walk with you," one fat woman said to her friend who hikes to do her shopping.

Call me and I'll go with you. That is purpose of the organization of fat women which meets weekly. Called TOPS, Take Off Pounds Sensibly, members get together to share problems of compulsive eating, and to give each other encouragement to stop.

Surrounded by her fat sisters, one woman gave a testimony about a triumph she had with her emotions this week. Her voice quivered when she described the food that she had not eaten.

"Last night I was frying eggs at midnight for a kid who came in from a ballgame. It made me so hungry just watching him make a sandwich of two fried eggs, a thick piece of ham and two slices of cheese. Then he drank a whole quart of orange juice. Finally, I forced myself out of the kitchen and yelled at him to put everything away himself.

"We're proud of you," the women encouraged. "We know you will stay with losing weight now."

The club members really care when they give encouragement. Many of these women were fat, but their families and friends liked them that way. At the meetings of TOPS, everyone cares about even a fourth-pound gained or lost by a member.

Teamwork in dieting works for some members. Two women who cook at a clinic joined the club together and serve as each other's will power at work.

"If you don't think working around delicious food eight hours a day, and trying to stay on a diet, is easy. Just try it," the cook said in her testimony at a meeting this week.

"This food isn't very good, but it is better than grass," one cook told the other as the prepared their special trays for lunch. This "better than grass" saying keeps them both going, she said.

Another incentive for all of the compulsive eaters is a weekly confrontation with a set of doctors scales. The women weigh in at each meeting and are punished or rewarded by the results.

A pig-of-the-week and a queen-of-the-week are chosen according to the most pounds gained and lost.

"It may be silly, but it works," a charter member who has lost 35 pounds said.

A member who is 55½ pounds slimmer after 51 weeks of TOPS membership, looked to the organization for encouragement when her husband did not seem to care if she were fat or thin.

"A husband not caring about your weight is better than one like mine. He sits at the table and adds up the calories on my plate," another member said in her testimony.

Weight-reducing tricks help the women get a proper perspective on the value of food. Some of the women put every bit of food they would like to nibble into a quart jar.

"By the end of the week, the mess of food in that jar really turns me against food," a 35-pound loser said.

Eating ice after meals, putting a picture of one's fat self on the kitchen wall, or keeping a plastic pig in the refrigerator have helped some of the women stay on diets.

The Sikeston club chartered nationally July 2, 1968, was formed by two women who visited Charleston TOPS. Five of the original eight members are still with the club after one year.

When members reach their desired weight, they graduate to KOPS, Keep Off Pounds Sensibly. KOPS members attend their fatter sisters' meetings and give them encouragement to become thinner, healthier people.

"Fat people know that maintaining a healthy weight is a life-long struggle," a KOPS member said.

She joined one of two groups selected this week to have a competitive weight loss for six weeks. These fat women believe that the big losers will be the small winners.

Renewed with some will-power after the TOPS meeting this week, the women repeated the pledge they say whenever they open the refrigerator door:

"I am an intelligent person
I will control my emotions, not let my emotions control me.
Every time I am tempted to use food to satisfy my FRUSTRATED DESIRES, BUILD UP MY INJURED EGO or DULL MY SENSES
I will remember even though I overeat in private -- My excess poundage is there for all the world to see
WHAT A FOOL I'VE BEEN."
(National TOPS club pledge.)

Mrs. Nixon 'Didn't See An Ugly Face'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pat Nixon came home from her round-the-world trip saying that the "happy, smiling faces of the people that welcomed us everywhere" are evidence of a "lessening of tensions."

"I didn't see an ugly face on the whole trip," Mrs. Nixon said in an interview while flying home Sunday night.

And because she didn't see any demonstrations or signs of criticism, Mrs. Nixon said she feels: "America's prestige is at an all-time high."

In winding up her first foreign trip with her husband since he became President, Mrs. Nixon said the reception in Romania was one of the big moments they have experienced during eight years of traveling around the globe.

For two days "they came out time after time," she said of the enthusiastic crowds in Bucharest.

"I wouldn't stand for two days for anything," she said laughingly.

Mrs. Nixon said she felt the Romanians have always had an affection for the United States.

"They want to be proud and had a chance to be proud because an American president was in their country," she said, adding that the U.S. moon landing "played a part in it."

The First Lady also was impressed by the soldiers and security men which lined the routes in Bucharest.

"Once they get you in, they take care of you," Mrs. Nixon said of the Communist government.

Time and again on her travels, Mrs. Nixon was caught in a crush of eager welcomers, pushed and jostled.

"I never mind that," she said.

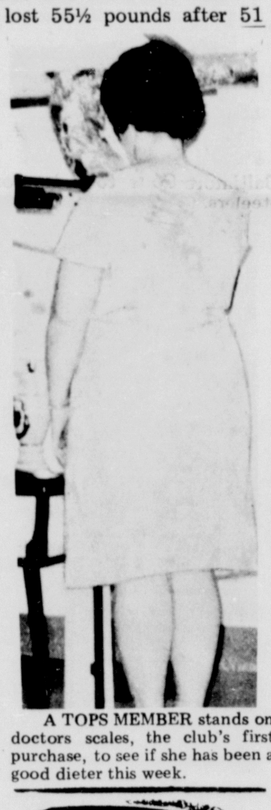
Mrs. Nixon recalled that the wife of India's acting President Mohammed Hidayatullah had told her in New Delhi: "You can't buy a crowd to come out. If you ask them to come out, they wouldn't do it."

Indians turned out, her hostess told Mrs. Nixon, because of interest created by the moon landing and because "they want to see that car"—the Presidential limousine which was flown in for Nixon's use at each stop.

While the President was conferring with heads of governments, Mrs. Nixon made visits to hospitals and social welfare institutions and adressed women volunteers.

Nixon said his wife "got an A report card all the way" on their trip through seven nations.

Returning home tired after more than 12 days of traveling, Mrs. Nixon's "do-it-myself" hairdo was still holding up well.



A TOPS MEMBER stands on doctors scales, the club's first purchase, to see if she has been a good dieter this week.

Weber Beats Godwin For Charleston Honors

NEW CHARLESTON INVITATIONAL golf champion is Charles Weber, Cape Girardeau, who took a one stroke edge with a 140 par equalling performance to shade defending champion Buddy Godwin of Poplar Bluff for the medalist and championship honors at the 30th annual tourney, held Saturday-Sunday at Charleston. He receives the prized H. G. Simpson Traveling Memorial trophy from tourney Chairman Heinie Hequembourg.

CHARLESTON -- Charles Weber, Cape Girardeau, forged a par equaling 140 to take the medalist honors and the championship of the 30th Annual Charleston Country Club Invitational Golf tourney and secured two legs of the three necessary for permanent possession of the H. G. Simpson Traveling Memorial Golf Trophy. He now shares this honor with J. D. Byrne, Charleston, and Ken Lanning, Poplar Bluff. Lanning did not compete this year and Byrne finished outside consideration.

Weber put together exact 70's Saturday and Sunday to edge Bud Godwin of Poplar Bluff the defending champ, by a single stroke as Godwin took second honors with a 141, closely followed by fellow townsman Jim Markel who carded a 142 for the third spot. Heinie Hequembourg, the tourney chairman, finished fourth in the championship flight contention with a 145 and Mike David, Desloge, gained the fifth spot with a 147.

Five different towns were represented in the top five of the Class A flight, captured by Bob Johnson of Poplar Bluff with a 147. Wilson of Poplar Bluff outlasted Him Drake of Charleston, posting a 148 for a single stroke advantage over Drake's 149 in Class B play and Harvey Branch, a Florida visitor, took third with a 156. Charles Brink of Charleston and Don Hearne of Little Rock, Ark., tied for fourth with 159 totals.

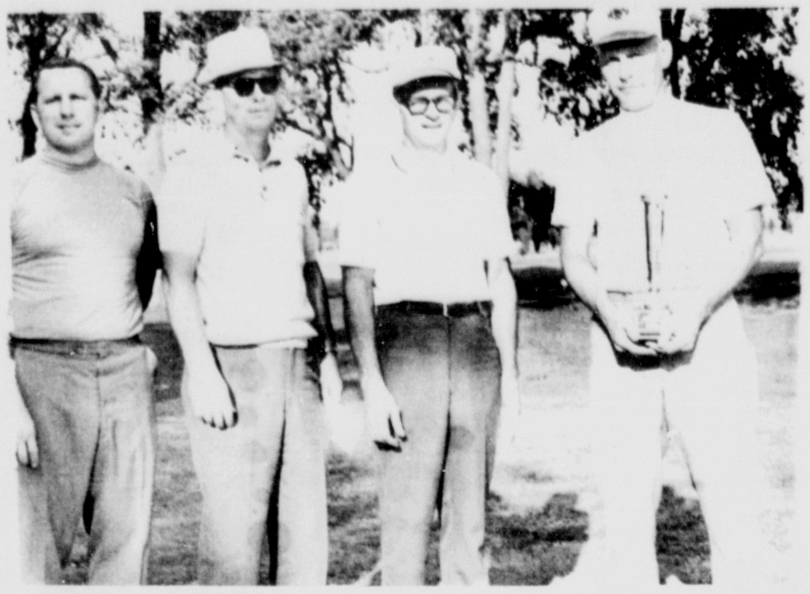
Gov. Warren Hearne, playing as usual in his hometown tourney, carded a 157, while playing in Class A competition.

A total of 103 golfers participated.



FOUR CLASS A top finishers in the annual Charleston Invitational Golf Tourney, held there Saturday and Sunday include (from left) Jerry Estes, Cape Girardeau, fourth finisher; Gene Cross, Portageville, third placewinner; Bill Bagby, Mounds, Ill., the runnerup and champion Bob Johnson of Poplar Bluff, who shaded Bagby 147-148 for the top honors in the two day competition of the 30th annual event.

Lilbourn Champs

PARMA -- Risco's upset binge was broken Saturday night in the championship game of the 16-team Parma Babe Ruth invitational baseball tournament at Jackson Field as Lilbourn rallied for three runs in the seventh inning to down the upstarts 5-3.

It was Lilbourn that Risco began its upset string against, putting down Parma and New Madrid along the line and it was the Lilbourn crew that ended the streak.

Pat McClarty struckout 17 batters and singled and tripled for Lilbourn, fanning 10 men for the first 10 outs of the game.

The lefthanded curveballing ace scattered six hits and issued six walks while his opposing hurler, Johnny Bunting, collected five strikeouts and gave up eight hits, three in the fatal seventh frame.

Grant Dambach, one of the tournament's most valuable players, socked a double to drive in two runs in the seventh and scored on Jeff McClarty's basehit.

New Madrid used its seventh inning to overcome a 1-0 deficit and move into third place as Mark Baker socked a three run homer, giving Bill St. Mary the win over Oran.

Both teams battled through four and a half innings of scoreless play before Oran broke the deadlock with a fifth inning score.

Dambach and Randy Terry of Risco were named Most valuable players of the tournament with Baker, Pat McClarty, Elton Bates and Brade Emerson receiving honorable mention.

The sportsmanship award went to the host.

Osteen Stops Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dodger pitcher Claude Osteen said he "had kind of a lazy feeling" when he walked two men in the eighth inning Sunday but then surprised himself.

"I had more left than I thought I had," the lefthander said after preserving his 5-0 shutout against St. Louis. The 4hit win was his 20th shutout in the majors and brought his season record to 14-7.

It snapped a six-game Cardinal winning streak and a fourgame Dodger tailspin.

Osteen gave up a hit in the second and another in the seventh. He walked Tim McCarver and Dal Maxvill in the eighth but overcame that "lazy feeling" to get two ground outs and fanned Lou Brock. "I struck out the guy I had to," he said.

Osteen's helpmate was Bill Sudakis who drove in three runs with a single, double and sacrifice fly. Manager Walter Alston said of the .228 hitting third sacker: "he has to hit if we're going to win."

The last time Sudakis drove in three runs was April 24 in a game Osteen lost to Atlanta, 8-7.

The Dodgers blasted Chuck Taylor for 10 hits and four runs in his six innings of service. It was Taylor's first loss in four decisions. Three singles in the fourth, the last by Sudakis, netted the first run. Sudakis doubled home a run in the two-run sixth and got his third RBI in the eighth with a sacrifice fly after jtom Haller skipped one past centerfielder Curt Flood for a triple.

Ted Sizemore doubled twice, driving in one run in the sixth. He was hit by a pitch in the fifth and came around to score on a bunt single, a sacrifice and a sacrifice fly ball.

The Cards and the Dodgers square off again tonight for the final game of their series. It's Nelson Briles (10-9) against Don Singer (13-7).

"MEN-WOMEN"

Age 19 and over. Prepare now for U.S. Civil Service job openings during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

For FREE booklet on Government jobs, including list of positions and salaries, fill out coupon and mail at once - TODAY.

You will also get full details on how you can prepare yourself for these tests.

Don't delay - ACT NOW!

LINCOLN SERVICE, DEPT. 15 - 3B

I am very much interested. Please send me absolutely Free (1) A list of U. S. Government positions and salaries; (2) Information on how to qualify for a U. S. Government Job.

Former Farm Agent Honored for Service

WASHINGTON – Lawrence W. Doran, a onetime Missouri extension agent and Ozark resident, has been honored by the United States government for 35 years of federal service. He was advisor for four years to the Republic of Vietnam on agricultural problems.

Doran received the length of service award from Joseph A. Mendenhall, acting assistant administrator for Vietnam in the Agency for International Development, a unit of the state department.

Doran is chief of the agricultural division in AID'S Vietnam bureau. He went to Vietnam in 1962 to help the Vietnamese ministry of agriculture improve the production, distribution and marketing of farm products.

Along with American and Vietnamese experts, he played a principal role in establishing long-range agricultural programs to increase rice, vegetable and fruit production in Vietnam's 44 provinces.

In accepting the service award, Doran commented on the AID program in Vietnam, asserting that in spite of the war its farmers have made steady progress. "The most remarkable achievement," he observed, "was the two-fold increase in rice production through the recent introduction of a 'miracle' rice seed, called IR-8." He noted that the seed has been distributed to more than 21,000 Vietnamese farmers.

Except for a two-year period during World War II when he served as a Navy lieutenant, Doran was agricultural extension agent from 1933 to 1947 in the Missouri counties of Pemiscot, Butler, Iron, Vernon, Hickory, and Lawrence.

After that he was appointed an agricultural specialist for the Army and served in Korea helping to develop better farm programs. Two years later he transferred to the foreign aid program and has since served as an agricultural specialist in Korea, the Philippines, Indonesia, and Thailand, in addition to Vietnam.

Doran received a bachelor of science degree in Livestock from the University of Missouri in 1933. He is married to the former Mildred Melton of Ozark, where both attended school. They have four children, Mrs. Harvey Strothmann Columbia, Mo.; Mrs. J. R. Hopkins of Silver Spring, Md.; Mrs. Roger Stumbo of Concord, Calif.; and Lawrence Jr. of Quincy, Ill.

Doran and his wife live in Takoma Park, Md.

Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Sir,

The local Illmo-Scott City 9 and 10 year old team has just finished playing in your annual tourney. TThis is our seventh year of competition. In these years we have been winner and loser. This year we lost in the finals to Chaffee. Our team was awarded the sportsmanship award and while we certainly tried to display our best feelings, we are not completely sure that we were the most deserving. Your two Sikeston teams were a credit to your community as they lost hard fought games to Chaffee and us. Portageville was certainly due credit as they accepted their loss, by one run, to us.

Your local committee has done an excellent job in running the tourney, but more apparent is the result of their efforts to teach the fundamentals of baseball and more importantly, the game of life. The teams were highly competitive in their play, still they were gracious when they failed. Jim Bollinger and I have always felt your tourney was one of the best run in our area and have appreciated Ron Blumer and his crew in years past. We were disappointed not to see him this year, but the officials this year were fine young men, doing their best.

The Sikeston fans came to see their team win, supported them in their effort, but when this was not their lot, they were great sports. Your paper's coverage of these games is excellent. I know of no other daily in Southeast Missouri that gives quite the same touch to a tourney such as this. These young boys are learning a great lesson in life as they give of their best in an effort to win, yet still are prepared to congratulate the victor.

It is small wonder that National Lock saw something in Sikeston that they liked. The worth of a community shows in such a variety of ways. Good luck to you from those of us in the other end of the county.

Sincerely yours,
Ollie Amick

Country Western Stars at State Fair

SEDALIA — Country western stars, Porter Wagoner and Kitty Wells, will headline a free Grand Ole' Opry Spectacular, Aug. 24, at the Missouri State Fair.

The spectacular, the second of two at the 1969 Fair, will be free to visitors.

Appearing with them will be Dolly Parton, Bobby Wright, the Tennessee Mountain Boys, comedian Speck Rhodes, Johnny Wright, Bill Phillips, the Wagonmasters and Ruby Wright.

Porter Wagoner, a native of West Plains, is considered by RCA Victor as one of their all-time recording greats. He has appeared on most major TV shows and now stars in the weekly, Porter Wagoner show.

Kitty Wells has been called the Queen of Country Music and rightly so. Four time she has been voted top country singer in the USA. Her famous songs include, "i'll Always Be Your Fraulein," "It Wasn't God Who Made Honky Tonk Angels," "Meanwhile Down at Joe's" and "I'll Repossess My Heart."

Fair Secretary W.C. Askew says "it's all part of our effort to provide top quality entertainment for fair goers. We feel this and the other top talent we bring to the fair all add to the excitement of the "Big One."

Dates for the 1969 Missouri State Fair are Aug. 16-24.

Consumer's Guide

"What, How and When" of Smart Buying

One of the most important jobs that anyone does today is being the "family purchasing agent."

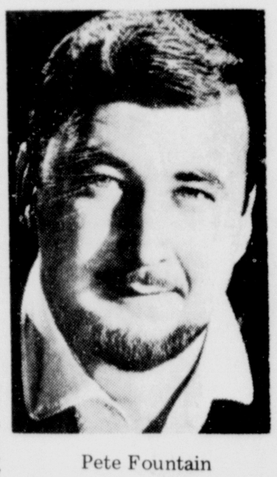
BBB

Those who do it the smart way think very carefully about what, how and when to buy.

First, smart consumers consider exactly what they should buy: they buy only what they can afford, and they think out what their specifications should be, whether it's the size of a dress or capacity of a refrigerator. They also think about how they should buy—cash or credit, and they bear in mind that credit may add to the cost of their purchases.

Smart consumers also give thought to when they buy—and as much as possible during sales, when prices are lower. If you have questions about a company or about a business practice, contact your Better Business Bureau. They may be able to answer your query on the phone, offer you a pertinent BBB pamphlet, or they may have available the new book, "The BBB Consumer's Buying Guide."

Pete Fountain Will Perform at Fair



Pete Fountain

SEDALIA — Jazz lovers will have a real treat in store for them at the 1969 Missouri State Fair.

Pete Fountain will be the featured performer at the free State Fair grandstand show, Aug. 21.

A native of New Orelans, Fountain grew up with the musical history of the Birthplace of Jazz. While some try to brand his music as orthodox Dixieland, or progressive jazz. Fountain prefers to call his music New Orleans jazz. He is a gifted genius with a clarinet.

Although Fountain's success is built on years of hard work, beginning as a teenager playing in French Quarter night spots, his career route was shortened by the millions who saw and heard his artistry for two years on the Lawrence Welk Television show. Although a strange background for his style of music, these appearances gained for Fountain a large army of loyal fans who clamor for each of his new album releases.

In addition to being owner and regular star of his own Bourbon street cabaret, his French Quarter Inn, Fountain has become one of the most consistent and biggest album sellers in his field. He is also a highly sought guest star on such network TV shows as the Bob Hope show, the Ed Sullivan show and many others. Fountain is a sell-out all over the nation in concert appearances and is also the winner of coveted awards from Playboy and Downbeat magazines.

To the Editor:

This may be old stuff, but I have had occasion to re-read the Kerner Report on Civil Disorders. Ever since it was released I have been bothered by something wrong with it.

I do not take exception to the main body of the report, but I wish the commission or a successor one could go into all the riot areas and ask those people who did not riot why they stayed out of it.

I also wish some competent commission could survey and study the 85 per cent of college students who did not participate in the campus disorders and an equally large percentage of young men who do not resist the draft, just as I wish someone could make a study of the 98 per cent (or thereabout) of black people who neither engage in church disruptions asking reparations nor condone them.

Many Americans, young, poor, black, etc., can feel with some justification that they have suffered injustices. Isn't it equally important why these people have never rioted, looted, revolted and militated? Wouldn't it be helpful to know that as to learn why others did?

By asking only the opinions of rioters we seem to say that their response is the only significant response to poverty and discrimination.

But the poor and the black who do not riot also have their motivations and reasons, and they may have more to teach America than do the others. They ought to be heard.

Dear Charley,

The suggestion made by Lawrence Cleek and you of a drinking fountain for Malone Park is a good one and the Sikeston Park Board, with the help of the Board of Public Works, is installing one there as soon as purchase can be made. There was a fountain there many years ago which finally yielded, not to the onslaught of time, but to that of destructive people.

In recent years a good drinking fountain was placed in Clayton Park. It lasted one month before being totally destroyed by vandalism. Let's hope the new one on Malone and the one being repaired in Legion Park fare better.

Very truly yours,
Ruth F. Sharp

Financing Our Enemies

Dr. Kershner

NEVER before has the government of a nation, knowingly and intentionally, financed the actions of individuals and organizations advocating and working toward its destruction. With sadness one must acknowledge that our government is now doing just that.

The fifty-one members of New York's Council Against Poverty constitute the governing board of the Community Development Agency. This organization spends over $31 million (fiscal 1968) for the Northeast Regional Office of the federal Office of Economic Opportunity. This vast sum of money was spent by people some of whom proclaim themselves as revolutionaries bent upon destroying our government. They include draft-card burners, saboteurs of the war effort in Vietnam, opponents of religious faith, black nationalists and ex-criminals. Some of them promote riots, defy, taunt and harass the police, assault firemen and work for the violent overthrow of local, state and national government.

Apologists for OEO apparently thought that by putting such persons on the payroll, they could be restrained from subversive activities. Actually, they have used the federal funds made available to them, greatly to step up their organized effort to overthrow our government.

Over and over, throughout history, the practice of paying one's enemies, in the hope that they would then become friends, has been shown to be utterly false. As Kipling said, "The end of that game is oppression and shame, and the nation that plays it is lost." Will we ever learn the great lesson that it is perilous to compromise with the forces of evil?

Grass in Cotton Costly To Producer

CARUTHERSVILLE - A grassy sample of cotton may cost a producer $10 to $15 per bale according to Agriculture Extension Agent W. F. James. There appears to be more Johnson grass in cotton fields than usual for this time of year, James says.

With the high costs experienced by many producers in making a cotton crop there may be those reluctant to chop out the Johnson grass. The cost of taking out a few clumps of grass per acre might be the best investment made for the 1969 cotton crop.

Grassy cotton made up one to three per cent of the Missouri cotton classed by the Government Classing office. With mill demands for higher quality cotton it will pay producers to take every precaution to meet their requirements.

If You Were the Judge

Herbie Marries For Money; Gets Divorce for Lack of It

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Lois was as pretty as a picture with a frame to match. Nevertheless, she couldn't get Herbie to marry her.

Stubborn as could be, Herbie insisted that since he couldn't support her, he wanted her to marry someone else who was more eligible financially. Equally stubborn, however, Lois was determined to get her man.

Consequently, she promised to give Herbie her life savings if only he would consent to their being knotted. Her argument was that he could use the money to start a business and that he could then support her in the style to which Herbie thought she could be accustomed.

Accepting Lois's argument, the couple got spliced. But, when Herbie thereafter learned that Lois had no life savings to give him, he promptly sued for an annulment.

"It was fraud," Herbie complained in court. "I was tricked. Had I known that Lois was busted, I'd never have married her."

"But I loved him," was Lois's answer. "I had to tell him something or he'd have never married me. Besides, if a man marries a gal for her money and then finds out that she hasn't got any, he's got no grounds to complain. At least in this case," concluded Lois, "Herbie's got me!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Herbie his freedom?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Herbie's ability to support a wife was an important factor in his decision to get married; that by tricking him into believing that he would be able to support her by going into business with her mythical money, Lois obtained Herbie's consent to the marriage by fraud. And, concluded the judge, consent obtained by fraud is no consent.

English Teachers Attend Workshop

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- About 40 high school English teachers are expected to attend a composition workshop which began Monday at Southeast Missouri State College.

The workshop, under the direction of Dr. Henry Sessoms and Dr. Peter Hilty, both professors of English, will run through Friday. Participants will earn one hour of either graduate or undergraduate credit.

Sessions will be held in the Language Arts building on the campus.

According to Dr. Sessoms, who is also head of the English department at Southeast Missouri State, the workshop will focus on the teaching of composition at the high school level and will explore all aspects of composition.

Daily lectures to be presented by the directors will be followed by discussions "to search out ideas and procedures helpful to teachers of composition," he said.

Dr. Sessoms added that this is the first time a workshop of this nature has been tried on the campus. He said he hopes to expand the program to a three-week course in the summer of 1970.

IN THE WAY

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A woman doctor reports she was driving in the city when she saw a woman lying on the pavement near an intersection. She stopped her car and asked a policeman: "Can I help? I'm a doctor."

"That won't be necessary," he replied. "We've already sent for an ambulance."

Then a second cop told her "You can't stop here anyway."

Cape Sable, Fla., is the southernmost point of conterminous United States. It is 49 miles farther south than the extreme southern tip of Texas.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness." (II Corinthians 12:9, RSV)

PRAYER: Stand by us with Thy grace, O Lord, especially when we face defeat or trial. Help us to use the fires of experiences through which we pass to refine and strengthen our faith. Amen.

"I used to stand up and say the world was a miserable place. Then I would sit down and do nothing about it."

Let's face it.
All is not perfect in this land of ours.
But maybe we should step back and take a long hard look at America.
And maybe we'll come out thinking this country's good side far overshadows its bad.
Then maybe we'll start to do something to make it better.
What can you do? How can one little individual help?

For one thing, you might think about investing in your country.
That's exactly what you do when you sign up to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.
Of course, Savings Bonds are not going to cure all our headaches. But they'll help to provide the economic strength we'll need for the job.
Any way you look at it, they make good sense.
And that's what we need right now.

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Aug. 4, the 216th day of 1969. There are 149 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1914, Britain declared war on Germany at the beginning of the first World War.

On this date:

In 1790, a U.S. naval force which later became the Coast Guard was formed.

In 1892, Lizzie Borden was arrested in Fall River, Mass., for the hatchet murder of her father and stepmother.

In 1916, the United States bought the Danish Virgin Islands for $25 million.

In 1944, during World War II, Nazi police captured 14-year-old Anne Frank and seven other Jews in their hiding place in Amsterdam.

In 1956, eleven U.S. Air Force fliers captured during the Korean War reached Hong Kong after being freed from prison in Communist China.

In 1963, it was disclosed that Joseph Valachi, a former member of the Cosa Nostra, had been supplying FBI with information about a national crime syndicate.

Ten years ago — after four years of negotiations, the United States rejected 15 Philippine claims totaling $950 million, ranging from tax refunds to back pay for wartime guerrillas.

Five years ago — the bodies of civil rights workers Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James Chaney were found in a newly built earth dam near Philadelphia, Miss.

One year ago — A tank and artillery battle flares across the Jordan River as Israeli planes hammered Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan.

who it might involve," Dirksen said.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader, said Nixon emphasized at the congressional briefing that his call for increased selfreliance in Asian defense represents an important shift in American policy.

"He emphasized that there was a new shift," Mansfield said. Mansfield said,

Mansfield said the new policy was based on the statements Nixon made July 25 at Guam, as he began his Asian journey.

Nixon said then the nations of Asia must bear increasing responsibility for their own defense, and indicated the United States would intervene there militarily only in cases of external aggression.

"I said that I agreed with his basic premise," Mansfield said after the two hour, 40 minute session at the White House.

Twenty-two members of Congress from both parties attended the session along with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Rep. George H. Mahon, DTex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said Nixon "was obviously highly pleased" with the trip.

"He didn't claim to have solved our problems, but his trip was a step in the right direction," Mahon said.

Mansfield said general application of the Nixon policy, which the senator called the Guam doctrine, will have to await an end to the Vietnam war.

"In areas not involved in the war, it will be the doctrine which will guide our actions in the future," Mansfield said.

The senator said the Nixon policy precludes U.S. intervention in cases of internal subversion in Asia.

"It emphasizes that the United States is a Pacific power with peripheral interests on the Asian mainland," Mansfield said.

He said that means the responsibility for Asian defense will be borne by Asians, with an assurance that the United States will consider assistance to help bring them economic stability.

"I would say that the Guam declaration marks a watershed in the history of the Pacific region," Mansfield said.

He said Nixon also discussed his two days in Romania, and indicated an interest in increasing East-West trade.

"He didn't get down into specifics," Mansfield said.

He said Nixon also expressed a hope for an increasing cultural exchange with Communist nations.

Noting that everywhere he went—from populous Asia to communist Romania—the young people in particular were captivated by the U.S. Apollo man landing on the moon, Nixon said upon his arrival home:

"Some way, when those two Americans stepped on the moon, the people of the world were brought closer together. ...

"The spirt of Apollo transcends geographical barriers and political differences. It can bring the people of the world together in peace."

Follow-Through program is financed with 90 percent federal funds and 10 percent local funds. Fifty percent of the students enrolled in the Follow-Through classes must be graduated of a year-round Head Start program.

R-1 Enlarged District has an enrollment of 4,214 from Kindergarten through the eighth grade, and 1,541 from the ninth through the twelfth grade, making a total of 5,755 students.

The new district will have completed integrating all classes with the opening of school in August.

The district has plans for an expanded vocational program, however, approval of the EDA application for a trade school will be necessary before real progress can be made with the program. Application for an entitle grant has been made and is now in the Washington Office of EDA. Promise of approval has been made, but to date has not been granted. If and when this application is approved, it will be for instruction at both the consisting of forty acres adjacent to I-55 and Old Highway 61 at New Madrid overpass, is in the process of being surveyed in order to prepare an abstract for purchase.

The problem of staffing schools with qualified personnel is a major problem. However, courses for in-service training and for certification of teachers in special areas will be available through the Delta Center at Portageville. The Delta Center is now prepared to fly instructors from the University of Missouri each week to conduct night classes.

A tax rate of $3. was set by the Board of Education and approved in the April election. The valuation of the district, including railroad and utilities, before the recent increase in county valuation was approximately $44,000,000.00. We do not know, at this time, how much this will be increased by virtue of the recent increase in county assessments. Should this increase in assessments exceed 10 percent of the present valuation, it will be mandatory that the Board of Education lower the tax rate to the level where it will bring in the same revenue as voted by the patrons.
